CRIMINALS PARTNERS WITH GOTHAM POLICE, SAYS PROBE REPORT

Curran Aldermanic Committee Makes a Scathing Arraignment of New York's Detective Bureau

SAYS SLEUTHS PAID THIEVES FOR ROBBERY

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty Charged With Furnishing Money With Which to Buy Burglar Tools

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 6.—Scattering arraignment of the detective bureau of the New York police department, and a charge that a partnership exists between some detectives and criminals, are contained in the third section of the Curran committee report on police conditions, submitted to the board of aldermen today. A brisk fight over the report's adoption was expected.

"Benjamin Levy," says the report, "who had never been convicted of a crime, testified that at the request of officials in the detective bureau he had often induced criminals to commit burglary in order that they might be arrested. He was strongly corroborated by reputable citizens, including an official of an insurance company, a merchant and others.

"Levy testified that in one case Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, in charge of the detective bureau, gave him $25 with which to purchase burglar tools. And after he succeeded in the burglary paid him $75 for his services.

"City vouchers for these amounts in Levy's favor were found in the comptroller's office.

"Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and others involved were subpoenaed by us and asked to waive immunity before giving their testimony. This they refused, with one exception, and they were not interrogated. Notwithstanding the shocking nature of this testimony and the corroboration received, the commissioner has taken no action whatever in the premises. It is not surprising that under such lax discipline some detectives turn thieves."

In conclusion the report says the bureau is hopelessly inefficient and should be reorganized along drastic lines.

Commissioner Dougherty issued a statement this afternoon branding the committee reports as "a sample of malice and lies, worthy of the fraudulent of a professional crook." It was too absurd to discuss in detail, he said.

PROBE OF GRAND JURY GOES OVER ONE WEEK

Only Routine Matters Up Tuesday—Dictograph Controversy Not Considered

It will be week after next before the Fulton county grand jury resumes its investigation of the vice situation in Atlanta, if any further investigation is to be made at all.

This was made plain Friday afternoon by Foreman Lewis H. Beck, who stated that Solicitor Dorsey had advised the grand jury that he had sufficient routine work ahead to engage its attention for at least three days next week.

Mr. Beck feels that three days a week is sufficient to ask the members of the jury to give from their business affairs unless matters of very pressing importance demanded attention. The grand jury will meet next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, and will consider the business which Solicitor Dorsey has in hand.

MAY PROBE FURTHER.

No agreement has been reached as to whether the probe would be resumed week after next. "We have gone pretty far already," said Mr. Beck, "but it is possible that there may be some further inquiry which we will desire to make."

The members of the grand jury appeared to not see much in the dictograph episode to justify their attention. They are inclined to regard it more in the nature of a newspaper controversy than anything else.

"It was necessary," said one prominent member of the grand jury Friday morning, "that we look into that phase of the dictograph incident which resulted in the open charges that vice was allowed to flourish in Atlanta without police interference, but when the dictograph matter is stripped of this feature there appears to be nothing left in it for the grand jury to consider."

Foreman Beck asserted that no complaint or demand delative to the dictograph controversy had been made to him. He did not know whether anything would arise which would justify the grand jury in going into that matter.

CHIEF TO LEAVE CITY.

Police Chief Beavers Friday morning notified Foreman Beck that he expected to leave Saturday for Washington to attend the annual convention of the National Association of Police Chiefs. The chief informed Mr. Beck that he had contemplated this trip for several months, and that he would be back in Atlanta Monday, June 16. He announced that he would be subject to the grand jury's pleasure upon his return.

150 on Strike

PUEBLO, Colo., June 6.—One hundred and fifty men of the United States Zinc company smelter at Blende, near this city, went on strike last night to enforce a demand for increased wages. About 500 employes of the company are concerned in the strike which is a result of the enactment of the new eight-hour law for mine and smelter employes. The men demand increased time scale because of the shorter day.

JAIL SENTENCE FOR WOMAN CONVICTED IN VICE CRUSADE

Mrs. N. Powell, Charged With Operating Disorderly House on Spring Street, Gets Heavy Sentence

HAD ENJOINED CHIEF FROM RAIDING HOUSE

Case Is One of Few on Record Where a Woman Is Sentenced to Jail Without Alternative of Paying Fine

Mrs. N. Powell, of 95 Spring street, was convicted in the city criminal court Friday on a charge of operating a disorderly house, and was sentenced to serve a term of four months in jail by Judge A. E. Calhoun.

This is one of the few cases on record where a woman, charged with operating a disorderly house, has received a straight jail sentence without the alternative of paying a fine.

It is understood that Mrs. Powell through her attorneys, Jackson and Gober, will appeal from the decision of the city court.

The case of Mrs. Powell is made doubly interesting by the fact that she some time ago secured a temporary injunction restraining Chief of Police Beavers from raiding her house or forcing her to move.

Chief Beavers had given Mrs. Powell ipstructions, to move before she secured the injunction, and the police official, when blocked in his effort to move the woman by the order of the superior court, resorted to the city court, where she was indicted on a charge of operating a disorderly house.

Chief Beavers himself appeared as one of the witnesses against her in the criminal court, and was instrumental in securing her conviction.

The temporary order of the superior court has never been heard, and is one of several similar injunctions, which are standing against the police.

Chief Beavers has often stated that attorneys have managed to impede his work in the suppression of vice through injunctions secured in the courts.

DYNAMITE CONSPIRACY CASE GOES TO JURY

Jury Will Say Whether Mill Owners Conspired to Have Dynamite "Planted"

(By Associated Press.)

BOSTON, June 6.—The cases of the alleged dynamite "plant" conspirators, WWilliam M. Wood, Frederick E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins were given to the jury today.

Judge Crosby instructed the jurors to return a verdict on each of the six counts of the indictments, but to find the defendants not guilty on the sixth count, which charges conspiracy to injure certain buildings and other property. No evidence to support that charge has been presented, the court said.

The other counts specify distinct offences, but all all have a bearing on the broad accusation that the defendants conspired to injure the cause of the textile strikers at Lawrence by "planting" dynamite on their premises.

The opening of court was delayed an hour and a half while one of the jurors, Morris Shuman, was closeted with Judge Crosby, District Attorney Pelletier and counsel for the defense.

No explanation for the delay was made when the jurors took their places in the box.

After instructing the jury that they should return a verdict for the defendants on the sixth count, the court described the other specific charges. The first count charges conspiracy to injure the textile strikers; the second conspiracy to injure unknown persons; the third and fourth conspiracy to injure Joseph Assaf and Urbano de Pratto, respectively, by imputing to them the illegal storing of dynamite in premises occupied by them; the fifth conspiracy to falsely charge unknown persons with illegal storing and keeping of dynamite.

CONLEY STICKS TO HIS STORY; DECLARES DETECTIVE CHIEF

Report of a Confession, Different From One Given to the Detectives, Is Ridiculed by Chief Lanford

DORSEY MAKES REPLY TO MRS. L. M. FRANK

No More News of Phagan Case to Be Given to Newspapers Except Through Head of Detectives

Chief of Detectives Newport A. Lanford gave out a statement Friday morning in which he characterized as absurd the rumor that James Conley, the negro pencil factory sweeper, had ever made any confessions other than those contained in the affidavits given the detectives.

The chief stated that he had questioned Conley on this subject both Thursday evening and Friday morning and that the negro had positively denied that he had made any other confessions.

This rumor is said to have originated at the court house Thursday following certain questions which the members of the grand jury are said to have put to A. S. Colyar, a witness. Colyar is said to have been asked if he had at any time drafted or had in his possession an affidavit of confession from Conley.

Colyar emphatically denied that he had ever discussed such an affidavit with any one. The only information he had of Conley's confessions, said Colyar, he had obtained from the newspapers.

Chief Lanford says that he talked with Colyar over the telephone Friday morning and that he denied ever having or claiming to have such an affidavit, much less offering one for sale. "He also told me," said the chief, "that he had never talked with Conley in his life and stated that he had only seen the negro once and that was when he happened to glance in the door of my office when we were questioning Conley.

"Last night Conley was brought up to my office and I asked him if he had ever intimated to anybody that he knew anything about the murder of Mary Phagan before he confessed to us. He stated that he had not. This morning he said he had never seen nor heard of Colyar."

According to Chief Lanford, Conley reiterates that his affidavit of confession contains all that he knows of the murder. "I have told the truth and the whole truth as far as I know it," the negro is quoted as having said.

SOLICITOR ANSWERS MRS. FRANK.

The publication of the statement of Mrs. Leo M. Frank, attacking the prosecuting officials of the city and county for the methods employed in securing evidence against her husband, who is charged with the murder of Mary Phagan, has broken the long silence of Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey.

Despite the hundreds of questions which have been poured at him each day, Mr. Dorsey has consistently refrained from discussing the evidence in any way, and it was with greatest reluctance that he has consented to talk on any phase of the case.

Mrs. Frank has charged that Minola McKnight, the family cook, has been imprisoned, threatened and tortured until a false affidavit was made.

"Why does the solicitor continue to apply the third degree to produce testimony?" asks Mrs. Frank. "How does he hope to get the jury to believe it?"

Mrs. Frank, in her statement, protests her belief in the complete innocence of her husband.

The reply of Solicitor Dorsey to the statements of the accused man's wife is as follows:

"I have read the statement printed in the Atlanta newspapers over the signature of Mrs. Leo M. Frank, and I have only to say, without in any wise taking issue with her premises, as I might, that the wife of a man accused of crime would probably be the last person to learn all of the facts establishing his guilt, and certainly would be the last person to admit his culpability, even though proved by overwhelming evidence to the satisfaction of every impartial citizen beyond the possibility of reasonable doubt.

"Since the discovery of this crime I have rigidly adhered to my consistent policy of refraining from newspaper interviews or statements with relation to the evidence upon which the state must depend to convict and punish the perpetrator of the crime, and it is my purpose to adhere steadfastly to this policy, submitting to the jury of Fulton county citizens, to be selected under the fair provision of the law, the evidence upon which, alone, conviction or acquittal must depend.

THOMAS EXPOSES SUGAR LOBBY TO SENATE PROBE

Colorado Senator Tells of Influence Used to Discredit Wilson's Program

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Further evidence of organized efforts of anti-free sugar forces to bring pressure to bear upon western Democratic senators and congressmen to align them against President Wilson's free sugar plan were given the senate "lobby" committee today by Senator Thomas, of Colorado, a member of the finance committee.

He produced hundreds of telegrams and scores of documents, letters, pamphlets and newspaper clippings which he believed showed an organized attempt to manufacture public sentiment in Colorado which would affect the action of its senators and representatives.

He gave the names of many Colorado towns from which scores of similar telegrams and letters had come and said he had been informed by some of the signers that they were practically forced to attach their names because of financial obligations to persons directing the movement.

The investigating committee showed a disposition to go to the bottom of some newspaper articles that Senator Thomas furnished and learn who forces were at work circulating newspapers on the sugar fight.

Senator Thomas said he knew the beet sugar interests long had maintained headquarters at Washington.

The campaign from Colorado, he declared, was evidently directed and financed by interests that would be affected by the tariff bill, but had been conducted in an anonymous matter, so he did not know the real forces behind it.

Although 24 senators were yet to be twenty-four senators were yet to be heard when the senate lobby investigation got under way today, Acting Chairman Reed was of the opinion that the investigators would be able to turn the light upon some of the so-called lobbyists subpenaed before adjournment tonight.

With the scent of the lobby already strong, Senator Reed was convinced that the committee is on the right trail at last and that from some of the scores of men who have been summoned it will be able to extract information confirming President Wilson's lobby statement.

Senator Reed announced he would ask the senate for an indefinite extension of time for the holding of the hearings. Objection by Senator Jones yesterday prevented the consideration of a similar request, but the Missouri senator expected to obtain approval today.

Senator Oliver, owner of 1,000 shares of preferred stock in the United States Steel corporation, told the committee he did not expect the tariff in any way to affect its value.

"I have always held that so far as the iron and steel schedule of the tariff is concerned, the United States Steel corporation is very much less subject to menace than would small manufacturers be to a change in the rates," said he. In addition to the steel stock, Senator Oliver said he had

Dual Standard of Morals Out of Date, Says Broyles

Atlanta City Recorder Tells Christian Endeavorers Man and Woman Must Be Judged Alike—"Chief Beavers' Work Was Greater Than Caesar's"—Four Crimes in Five Are Not Punished

"The time of a double standard of morality for man and woman has passed. It has come to a point where a young man should keep his mind as clean as he expects his sister to keep hers," said City Recorder Nash K. Broyles in an address given under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society of the Inman Park Presbyterian church Thursday night.

The subject of Judge Broyles' address was "Citizenship." Citing actual instances from the police court, he made a strong plea for upright living. He aimed his remarks for the ears of the youths present, but he was applauded by old and young alike.

In his address the recorder took an opportunity to pay a tribute to Chief of Police Beavers.

"Chief Beavers," he said, "proved himself a greater man than Caesar when he closed the houses in the segregated district. He took his job and probably his life in his hands when he did it! It was a feat greater than Caesar's crossing the Rubicon to capture Rome. For Caesar made himself a lawbreaker to battle for his cause, while Chief Beavers simply upheld the law which his constituents had made. He became a defender of the law."

Judge Broyles also criticized the system of ministering justice through courts of the United States and condemned the frequent lapses in its application by the courts. He said that as long as the apparent leniency of the American sex scheme exists, crime will be rampant.

"In London," he said, "according to statistics, there were only twenty murders in 1912, while in Birmingham, Ala., there were 306 in the same space of time. London has a population of 7,000,000; Birmingham, 140,000.

"We find a low percentage of crime all over British territory," he continued. "The reason is that technicalities and legal battles backed by money do not retard the word of the courts. In British possessions 80 per cent of the criminals arrested are punished. In America the percentage is 20. In four-fifths of the cases, crimes go unpunished in this country."

FOURTEENTH AMENDMENT LOOMS IN JAP AFFAIR

Note on California Land Law Says U. S. Constitutional Amendment Is Violated

(By Associated Press.)

TOKIO, Japan, June 6.—The rejoinder of Japan to the United States note on the subject of the California alien land ownership legislation reiterates that the land bill passed by the California legislature violates the spirit of the Japanese-American treaty by discriminating against a friendly power.

It points out that even if the question is an economic one, it enters the domain of international relations and therefore becomes a political question.

The note says that the California land legislation violates Article 1 of the Japanese-American treaty of 1911, which authorizes subjects or citizens of the contracting parties to own or lease houses which are inseparable parts of real estate.

It also declares that the new bill violates the fourteenth amendment to the United States constitution requiring the states to grant equal protection under its laws to all persons within its jurisdiction.

Interest in the Japanese-American land ownership controversy is unabated in Japan. Several mass meetings of protest are being arranged.

Tatsue Yamamoto, minister of agriculture and commerce, declares the Jap-

MOVIE FILMS MAY BE PUT ON FREE LIST

Senate May Insist on Amendment to Tariff Bill to Except Moving Picture Films

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Seeking more light on the print paper question, the senate finance sub-committee, considering the wood pulp and paper schedule of the Underwood tariff bill, conferred today with John Norris, of New York, chairman of the committee on paper of the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

Print paper costing not more than 2 1-2 cents a pound was put on the free list in the Underwood bill, but representatives of the paper manufacturers appearing before the senate subcommittee urged a contervailing duty because of Canadian restrictions on pulp woods. The sub-committee has not yet acted on that proposal. Senators Johnson, of Maine; Hoke Smith, of Georgia, and Hughes, of New Jersey, constitute the committee.

Mr. Norris is opposed to any countervailing duty, on the ground that every measure which the United States has imposed upon the Canadian provinces has reacted against the American paper maker and consumer.

TICKETS BOUGHT UP BY SPECULATORS TO G. H. S. EXERCISES?

President W. R. Daley, of Board of Education, Declares Many Parents Were Unable to See Exercises

"FIRST TWENTY IN LINE GOT ALL THE TICKETS"

President Daley in Favor of Having Exercises in Auditorium and Admitting the Public Without Charge

That ticket speculators bought large blocks of tickets to the graduation exercises of the Girls' High school in the Grand theater Thursday evening, and that as a result of these speculations a great many friends and families of the young ladies in the graduating class were unable to attend the exercises, is indirectly charged by Colonel W. R. Daley, the chairman of the board of education.

Discussing the ticket mix-up, he said Friday morning:

"Complaints have come to me from many sources. One gentleman tells me that his wife was the twenty-first person in the line when the ticket sale opened, and yet could not get a ticket when she presented her money at the box office. They told her, he said, that all the tickets were sold. If what they said was true, then the first twenty persons in the line must have bought all the tickets. Others report that they succeeded in getting tickets only by paying advanced prices. Some even paid 50 cents for standing room, when the price of seats was only 25 cents. It looks very much like the ticket speculators got in their work, and I am inclined to think if the theater management had taken the proper precautions, and exercised the proper judgment, the mix-up would not have occurred."

Colonel Daley advocates the removal of the graduating exercises from the Grand theater to the auditorium, where a great many more people can be accommodated and where no admission charge whatever will be necessary. He thinks the board of education should order the exercises held in the auditorium next year.

"The admission charge at the Grand is made necessary," he continued, "because the school has to pay for the house, the proceeds from the ticket sale being used for this purpose. I have advocated for some years the removal of the graduation to the auditorium, and I am more in favor of it now than ever, owing to the ticket mix-up, which, by the way, is not the first that has occurred. We can remedy the whole thing and accommodate the public on a much more satisfactory scale by simply holding the graduation in the auditorium and charging no admission."

CONGRESS WILL MAKE ALASKAN ROAD POSSIBLE

Legislation Will Be Enacted This Session Guaranteeing Bonds to Railroad

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The way is being prepared for the enactment of Alaskan railroad legislation at this session of congress. The preliminaries have all been attended to, and the bill on which the senate will practically be agreed, will be reported back from the territories committee in a few days. President Wilson has said that he is anxious for Alaskan legislation at the earliest available moment.

Two bills providing that the government itself should construct a railroad system in Alaska, and guarantee the bonds necessary to pay for it, were introduced in the senate early in the present session, and referred to the territories committee, one by Senator Chamberlain, of Oregon, and the other by Senator Jones, of Washington. After considering these bills for several weeks, and holding extended hearings, the committee appointed a sub-committee of five, the senators named being a part of it, to draft a new bill, in the light of the testimony taken at the hearings, and of criticisms and suggestions from other sources.

That sub-committee, after conferring with President Wilson, has at last concluded its work, and will report to the full committee, at which time the bill agreed upon, it is expected, will be ordered reported favorably to the senate. The plan is to give that bill right of way, by making it the unfinished business of the senate, thus insuring debate on its provisions continuously until disposed of. The hope is that the debate, which it is believed will not be prolonged, will exhaust itself by the time the finance committee is ready to take up the tariff, and that the bill will pass the senate with almost no opposition. This being the case, Chairman Underwood will be expected, at White House suggestion, to place the bill before the house caucus, where approval will be certain. It would then be a matter of but a few days to pass it through that body, and send it to the president for his approval.

RELIES ON SECRETARY LANE.

Having given this legislation his approval, the president has intimated that he will be too busy to follow it in detail, but that Secretary Lane, of the interior department, will be his representative in seeing to details. Mr. Lane will confer with house and senate leaders from time to time, as occasion may require, and will make suggestions subject to the president's approval. Already the secretary has given his full approval to the scheme of federal construction of railways in Alaska, and to the compromise bill which is to go before the territories committee.

The bill provides for the sale of bonds aggregating $40,000,000, but doesn't specify any particular amount of mileage this to be left to the discretion of the president, who is to have general and full charge of the plans, just as he has had in the building of the Panama canal; indeed, the bill has been patterned after the canal act, so far as the part the president is to have in it is concerned.

It is planned, however, that with $40,000,000 at his disposal, the president will be able to build at least 1,000 miles of railway; at the rate of $40,000 a mile, which is believed to be most liberal, even after taking into consideration the topographic difficulties of Alaska.

The railways through the Rocky mountains, it is pointed out, did not cost anywhere near $40,000 a mile, on the average, and construction in Alaska will in no case be more difficult than it has been in the American and the Canadian Rockies.

Twenty thousand dollars a mile is regarded as a fair average price by many experts, which being true, the president would have a big leeway in providing for 1,000 miles in Alaska, and would probably be able to build that number of miles well within the bond allowance. This fact is the more important because Alaskan experts estimate that, at the most, only 897 miles of railway will be necessary to open the territory in as complete a manner as is now desirable.

HOW BONDS WILL BE SECURED.

The bonds of the proposed railway will be secured by a fund realized from the sale of public lands in Alaska, 75 per cent of the gross proceeds of all public lands sales there going into the bond redemption fund. The percentage on the original bills was 50, and the increase to 75 is to give a greater assurance to the investors that the government will never be called upon to make good its guarantee.

A condemnation clause has been inserted in the bill whereby the president will be authorized to condemn any railway already built in Alaska, and acquire it for the government, provided such railway is necessary to complete any trunk system the president may have in mind. The railway to which this clause refers is the Alaskan Northern line, seventy-two miles long, from Seward north. There was much opposition to the insertion of this exemption clause.

It is believed that if the completion bill should become a law, either at this session or next winter, the president will, in the exercise of his discretion, select a route for a trunk line which will make necessary the acquisition of the Alaska Northern.

The general impression is that the president, with the report of the Alaska railway commission before him, and with the additional data at his command, will decide to extend the Alaska Northern line, which begins at Resurrection bay, through the Matanuska coal lands and the agricultural lands of the Susitna valley, Broad Pass and the Nenana coal fields to Fairbanks.

This would be the main trunk line to the Tanana valley. The president, it is also believed, will provide a branch line from Kinik through the Kuskokwim valley and the littered gold fields to a point on the Yukon river near Kaltag. Such a line would not only provide for the lands through which it would cross, but would also be an outlet for the Seward peninsula and the Nome district. The total mileage of this trunk line and one branch, as stated, would be 897 miles.

Senator Jones is to line up Republicans for the bill, and Senator Chamberlain Democrats. It is the opinion of Mr. Jones that at least two-thirds of the Republicans in the senate will support it, and Mr. Chamberlain hopes to secure the support of practically all of the senate Democrats.

The bill makes but one reference to coal lands. It provides that the president may establish a naval coal reservation. The intent of congress is to take up the coal question in a separate bill next winter. Such a bill has already been introduced by Senator Pittman, of Nevada, who will press it at the regular session, beginning in December. It is entirely possible that he may get the bill reported to the senate during the present session.

MARSHALL IS GUEST OF NASHVILLE FRIDAY

Vice President and Mrs. Marshall Attend Founders' Day of Y. M. C. A.

(By Associated Press.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 6.—Vice President and Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall are guests of Nashville today, having come for the celebration of Founders' day by the Y. M. C. A., Mr. Marshall being the principal orator for the banquet this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall arrived this morning. They came in about 3 o'clock this morning, and it was planned for them to remain in the sleeper till 8 a. m., when called upon by the reception committee. The loss of their trunk in transit, a source of worry to the visitors, caused an alteration in the plan. Accompanied by local friends they repaired very early to the hotel, without waiting for the committee.

At noon a public reception in their honor was held at the Y. M. C. A. This afternoon they visited the Hermitage, Andrew Jackson's old home. A reception at the Centennial club for Mrs. Marshall was an afternoon feature. The banquet this evening is a dollar-a-plate affair.

Senators Luke Lea and Shields and former Senator Webb are also on the program.

From here Mr. Marshall goes to Indianapolis for the unveiling of the bust of Colonel Richard Owen, placed in the capitol there by Confederate veterans in recognition of his kindness to prisoners of war captured at Fort Donelson, while commandant at Camp Morton.

HEARSAY EVIDENCE IN STEEL TRUST SUIT

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 6.—A substantial part o fthe testimony given by Percival Roberts, Jr., in direct examination for the defense at the hearing of the government dissolution suit against the United States Steel corporation was objected to by counsel for the government today as "hearsay and secondary evidence."

Judge Jacob M. Dickinson, the government attorney, closely cross-examined the witness, who is a director of the corporation, as to the sources of the information upon which he had based various statements in his testimony favorable to the defense. Mr. Roberts, while insistent that his statements were correct, admitted that he had acquired his infromation from others.

VICE PROBE QUIZZES HEADS OF FAMILIES

Illinois Committee Looks Into Salary Paid to Fathers With Relation to Vice Conditions

CHICAGO, June 6.—Fifty witnesses, including bankers and large employers, were scheduled to testify when the Illinois vice commission began a two days' session here today. The commission desires light on the relation of low wages of the heads of families to immorality among women.

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National bank, was the first witness. Boys working for the bank, Mr. Reynolds said, received $20 or $25 a month when they are without experience. The average wage or salary of the $27 employes of the bank, Mr. Reynolds said, was $75 a month.

"Would it make any important difference in dollars and cents if you were to pay your inexperienced boys $7.50 a week?" asked Chairman O'Hara.

"Any change which eliminates merit and makes wages arbitrary would be bad practice, in my opinion," replied the banker. "In dollars and cents it would make little difference to us."

James Simpson, vice president of Marshall Field & Co., the next witness, said his firm did not employ married men who were incapable of earning more than $12 a week.

"Perhaps if you paid better wages more bachelors would get married," suggested Senator Beall. Witness explained that the minimum wage for boys at the store was $8 a week.

O'Hara spent some time in developing the fact that Marshall Field & Co. have a clerk who has been there fifty years and who recently celebrated the fact.

"Now," asked O'Hara, 'would you mind telling us how much salary he draws?"

"Six thousand a year and about two thousand bonus."

THE DRUGGIST REFUNDS YOUR MONEY WITH A SMILE

All Leading Drug Stores Will Give Money Back Should There Ever be a Case Where Dodson's Liver Tone Fails to do Good.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a mild vegetable Liver Tonic which operates so successfully in cases of constipation, torpid liver or biliousness that it has practically taken the place of calomel—the drug which is so often dangerous. Every druggist who sells Dodson's Liver Tone guarantees it to be a sure reliever of constipation, sour stomach, biliousness and sluggish liver.

Dodson's Liver Tone works so gently and surely and harmlessly that this guarantee seems unnecessary, but if a bottle should ever fail to do all that is claimed for it your druggist, if you buy it from him, will refund the price paid without question.

The price of Dodson's Liver Tone is 50 cts. per bottle. Be sure you get Dodson's Liver Tone and not some medicine put up in imitation that is not backed up by a guarantee and that may contain harmful drugs.

THE ANSWER BOOK IS GOING FAST.

A few days ago we asked the contestants who had not secured an Answer Book to get their orders in soon, both for their own sake and for ours, and we are glad to say that they are acting on our advice and securing their Answer Books while we have plenty of them on hand. Getting your Answer Book now makes it easier for us in the closing days of the Campaign, and it also means to the contestants that they will not have to take a chance of not getting one in the closing days. We believe we have ordered a sufficient number of them to accommodate all our friends, but are giving fair warning now so that no one can blame us if we run short of Answer Books later on and they should not be able to get one.

It will mean that any one who does not secure an Answer Book will have to use a picture and coupon for each answer they submit. The whole set of 750 pictures necessary to exercise your rights to ten answers on each title would cost you $15, while the Answer Book will only cost you 80c at the office or 90c by mail; yet you will have the right to ten answers with the Answer Book, using only one of each picture.

Booklovers' Queries.

Mrs. E. A. S. Leslie: Answer to picture No. 1 was not given by us.

Contestant, Macon: Where a title is listed with more than one author, you can use either author's name, but do not need to use both of them. The lines back of picture No. 16 would have no bearing on title.

L., Alfred, Ga.: The man in uniform in No. 56 is a soldier. You will have to decide for yourself on balance of picture and what it represents. The dark spot on old gentleman's coat in No. 31 has no bearing on title. No. 35 was reversed unintereringly.

WESTERNERS, HORSEBACK, RIDE TO CAPITOL STEPS

Arrived From Olympia, Wash., on Tour Which Will End in California

A unique visit was paid Governor Joseph M. Brown at the capital Thursday morning, when four bona fide westerners rode up the steps from the sidewalk on horseback, leaving their mounts at the foot of the main stairs to the building.

In the party were J. B. Ransome, Raymond Hanse, George W. Beck and C. C. Beck, all from the Circle "S" ranch, in Olympia, Wash. The governor came out of his office to greet the visitors and then posed with them at the capitol steps while The Journal photographer snapped them.

The quartet brought a letter from Governor W. E. Hay, of Washington state, introducing them to the chief executives of every state in the union whom they expect to visit in their 20,000-mile trip over the United States in the saddle.

The travelers left Olympia on May 1, 1912, with the avowed intention of shaking hands with the governors of the country and ending their long ride at the Panama-Pacific exposition on June 1, 1915.

The ride so far has taken them to thirteen capitals, counting Atlanta. From each governor they have received a letter showing that they have actually visited the city and besides that, every governor so far has posed with them for a photograph. At the present time they have covered approximately 7,000 miles, or one-third of the journey, having come directly across the continent through the middle west, the eastern and New England states and south as far as Tallahassee, Fla. From there they came directly here and are now bound for the Carolinas, on north to Virginia and then on through the South Atlantic states to their ultimate destination.

Though the visitors still have twenty-four months ahead of them in which to complete their journey, they expect to arrive in California fully thirty days ahead of schedule time. In order to be able to do this it is necessary that an average of twenty-two miles per day be traveled.

Unlike most excursions of this nature, these four cowboys do not claim to be making the trip without working their way along. They were staked for the beginning of the trip by two millionaire ranchmen who were anxious to ascertain the staying powers of western horses on such a journey. Out of the five animals that started out, including the pack horse, but two are left, and these bid fair to finish the trip in good shape.

The westerners have with them two moving picture reels of scenes taken of them in action and these are put on wherever it is possible to show them. This in itself brings in a good revenue. Aside from this, they are writing regularly for three magazines. A diary is also kept and at the conclusion of the ride their experiences will be put into book form and sold.

CONFESSES TO MURDER AFTER BEING ACQUITTED

(By Associated Press.)

COLUMBUS, O., June 6.—Lee Cage, a femher of the iron molders' union of Wheeling, W. Va., confessed in the federal court here today that he killed John J. Reardon, a detective, of Pittsburg, at Steubenville, O., in 1910. The tragedy occurred during a period of labor trouble.

Cage was tried at Steubenville more than a year ago on a charge of having murdered Reardon, but the case was acquitted, having refused to take the witness stand. Cage's confession today was made in connection with a civil hearing.

He cannot be tried again on the same charge, having once been in jeopardy.

Cage's confession resulted in the speedy dismissal of proceedings pending involving the disposition of $5,000 reward money offered by the commissioners of Jefferson county, and another suit by Reardon's administrator to collect $5,000 damages from Jefferson county because of Reardon's death.

After Cage's admission that he fired the shots, an agreed order was entered allowing Reardon's heirs $1,500.

Cage declared that he had come into court voluntarily.

Former Marshal Indicted

MACON, Ga., June 6.—W. F. Holmes, former city marshal, has been indicted by the grand jury on the charge of embezzlement. It was alleged that while he was connected with the city he appropriated over $7,000 to his own use. When the warrant was served on him last night he gave $1,000 bond.

BUFFALO BILL'S SCOUT IS HERE

MAJOR JOHN M. BURKE,
Advance agent of the "wild west" cowboys and "Injuns" since Buffalo Bill started his show. Major Burke's coming presages the greater event.

BUFFALO BILL'S SCOUT HAS REACHED ATLANTA

Major John M. Burke Arrives in City to Look Things Over for Coming Show

With spurs jingling and sombrero cocked jauntily on his head, Major John M. Burke blew into Atlanta Thursday, his eagle eye searching the landscape for a good place to pitch the camp of Buffalo Bill, Pawnee Bill, and their famous wild west show.

Major John is known wherever Colonel Bill Cody himself is known, and that is saying quite a bit, for the fame of Buffalo Bills is world-wide and enduring. The Major has been the advance agent for the Buffalo Bill show since time immemorial, and on many occasions his familiar face smiling its way into Atlanta has heralded the coming of the "Injuns" and the cowboys.

The Major has blood in his eye this trip. He is laying for Jack Prince, and if he gets the drop on the rain-maker Jack has best "set 'em up" to the drinks and be done with it.

"Why, for years," says Major Burke, "our show has spread itself all over the Jackson street grounds, and, of course we expected to keep on spreading there for years to come. Now here comes Jack Prince and squats right down on it. His claim is too well staked out to dispute, but just the same I'd like to jump it. As it is, our show will camp on pretty good grounds at that, out in old Brisbine park, on Cooper street."

The Major is just looking things over in preparation for Buffalo Bill's coming next week. The "Wild West" show is combined this year with Pawnee Bill's "Far East," and is said to be some wild and woolly as well as mysterious and Oriental.

Colonel Cody, though succeeded in the saddle by his younger partner and associate, Major Lillie, who assumes his former rule as arenic director, will make a few remarks on the occasion, as a manager.

The extension of the wild west idea to include similar primitive life in other parts of the world by merging with Pawnee Bill's Far East, has resulted in an entertainment that exceeds any possibility in scientific "snap-shotting." The importance of the subjects involve managerial duties that necessitate careful supervision, and for this reason, while resigning his prominence in the arena, Colonel Cody will be present and lend his aid to his managerial associate, Major Gordon Lillie, in direction and exhibition.

A newly arranged presentation of these flesh-and-blood animated pictures of primitive and rugged life has been arranged by the well known stage producer, R. H. Burnside, so that the variegated program, with people and episodes and traits of their actual life, will be presented with a sequence of action that closely approaches a tour of the world, and permits the study of its inhabitants in various interesting natural feats of skill in horsemanship—in fact, in action.

The management promises many novelties, in addition to the standard features that are of historic value, and the three years' absence of this home-born form of amusement augurs a general public interest.

OVERCAST SKIES WILL CONTINUE IN GEORGIA

Cloudy Skies Keep Down Temperature — Atlanta's Rainfall Now Normal

More cloudy and threatening weather is the forecast made Friday by Weather Forecaster Von Herrman. He predicts that Saturday will be just such a day as Friday, with the clouds overcast to keep down the temperature, and just a sprinkle now and then.

At present the situation in Atlanta, as far as rainfall goes, is exactly normal. A little more sunshine over the state would help the growing crops, but there has not been any large amount of rain, according to the forecaster, that would cause the farmers any worry.

The outlook Friday was that the highest the thermometer might reach during the day would be 80. It was 70 at 7 o'clock in the morning. Thursday the maximum was 88, which was for a very short time only. The minimum Thursday was 67. Cool northwesterly breezes continue to make the nights pleasant.

Little sunshine was observed in the United States Friday, according to the gloomy looking weather map.

LET INDIAN SOLVE HIS OWN PROBLEMS

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Mrs. Laura Kellogg, a student of the American Indian, told the senate Indian affairs committee today that only when the bureau was abolished and the Indian allowed to fight out his own problem of existence would the Red Man return to the proud place he once occupied.

She suggested the establishment of model villages to be conducted by the Indians themselves. Mrs. Kellogg condemned the Indian education system, declaring it had proved a failure.

MACON, Ga., June 6.—Over 200 farmers and their families, in addition to a number of people from Macon, enjoyed the Bibb County Agricultural institute's rally and basket picnic today at Rutland High school, nine miles south of Macon.

RENEWED TREATIES ARE RECOMMENDED

Foreign Relations Committee Also Recommends Bills Proposed by Bacon

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Renewals of arbitration treaties with Great Britain, Italy and Spain, about to expire, were favorably reported today by the foreign relations committee and doubtless will be ratified by the senate.

An extradition treaty with Paraguay almost, if not absolutely the last place in the world where an American criminal is safe from justice, also was approved.

Senator Bacon's bills to raise the legation at Madrid to an embassy and create separate legations for Uraguay and Paraguay were approved. The proposed canal treaty with Nicaragua was not discussed.

NEW TROLLEY SCHEDULES WILL BEGIN SATURDAY

That Is June 7, Effective Date of Railroad Commission's Order

In accordance with the railroad commission's orders of May 29, improved service on ten of the routes of the Georgia Railway and Electric company will go into effect on Saturday, June 7.

Chairman C. Murphey Candler has been informed by President Preston Arkwright that the company is ready to comply. The decree of the commission followed for the most part certain suggestions made by Mr. Arkwright.

The action of the commission followed a request from Chairman Candler to the company that certain data be furnished to assist the commission in arriving at a definite and comprehensive conclusion leading toward minimizing the congestion of street railway traffic.

The company accordingly assisted the commission, and its suggestions were accepted, with but a few additions as to improved service, in the order of the commission.

ROUTES AFFECTED.

The ten routes affected are No. 2, Copenhill to West View; No. 4, Inman Park and Georgia avenue; No. 5, West Peachtree and South Pryor; No. 6, Forrest avenue and Capitol avenue; No. 8, Fair and Marietta; No. 16, Whitehall and Peachtree; No. 17, Decatur main line; No. 18, River; No. 20, College Park, and No. 23, Buckhead.

Aside from this the commission ordered that during the months of June, July, August, September and October, 1913, for two days in each month, the company show a record of the actual count of passengers handled during the rush hours, both from the north and south sides to Five Points, and also the number of cars operated and the total number of seats available.

The improvements agreed upon between the company and the commission follow:

DETAIL OF IMPROVEMENTS.

Route No. 2.—Copenhill to West View: Rearrangement of schedules so as to space the trips between cars now operated more nearly to four minutes and secure an evener distribution of the traffic loads. Counts of actual loads at peak points to be made during next five months and filed with the commission, so as to secure accurate information as to whether there is excessive congestion.

Route No. 4.—Inman Park-Georgia avenue: A three and one-third minute headway during morning and afternoon rush hours on Inman Park end, with the Georgia avenue end provided for by increased service on Route No. 5.

Route No. 5.—West Peachtree and South Pryor: Additional cars between Sixth street crossing on West Peachtree, and Bass street crossing on South Pryor, so as to give during the morning and afternoon rush hours a service with five minutes' headway.

Route No. 6.—Forrest avenue and Capitol avenue: Actual counts to be made during morning and afternoon rush hours at two peak points during next five months, to accurately ascertain degree of congestion, if any, on this route.

Route No. 8.—Fair and Marietta streets: The afternoon rush hour service on this line has been recently extended from 6:30 to 7 p. m., and schedules now established more regularly sustained. Counts of traffic loads to be made on this route, as directed on No. 6.

Route No. 16.—Whitehall and Peachtree: Increased service so as to provide for cars every three and one-third minutes, and extension of afternoon rush hour service to 9 p. m.

SUBURBAN LINES.

Route No. 17.—Main Decatur: Additional tripper cars to Hayes street, so as to give service to that point with three and one-third minutes' headway, and from there to Decatur on five minutes' headway during morning and afternoon rusr hours, with extension of service on ten-minute headway from end of afternoon rush hour period to 9:30 p. m., in lieu of present twenty minutes' headway. After 9:30 p. m. the twenty-minute headway will be operated as now.

Route No. 19.—River line: Extra cars on Sundays during summer months to accommodate extra traffic. Counts of traffic loads to be made on this route week days, as directed on other named routes, to accurately ascertain measure of regular traffic.

Route No. 20.—College Park, East Point and Hapeville: Actual counts of week day loads at peak points to be made during next five months, to ascertain accurately if there is over congestion in regular traffic.

Route No. 23.—Buckhead line: Tripper service previously ordered by the commission to Sixth street on West Peachtree has been recently extended by the company to Dead Man's Curve, the end of the double track, which gives local service this far on a ten-minute headway during rush rours and to that extent relieves concestion on the Buckhead cars. In addition, double-headers in the morning and afternoon hours, for congestion during those hours arising out of construction work in the northern part of the city, are operated and will be continued as necessity demands. Counts, during morning and afternoon rush hours, for the next five months, of actual loads at the peak point of the Buckhead line have been ordered, and will determine the necessity of further relief on this route.

Banker and Railway President Fighting for Control of the "Frico"

JAMES SPEYER.

B. F. YOAKUM.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Two men known to the railroad world for many years will figure prominently in the investigation by the interstate commerce commission of the receivership of the "Frisco" system—James Speyer, the New York banker, and B. F. Yoakum, president of the company.

The real story of the break between these men has not yet come out. Just now lawyers for both sides are preparing for action in court. The Speyers, it is understood, have determined to force Yoakum out of control. They represent heavy foreign investors. Till within a short time Speyer and Yoakum were friends, but they broke, and Yoakum sought aid from St. Louis banking interests.

It has been stated that this fight is one of those which could not have taken place had J. P. Morgan lived. Many times he prevented such outbreaks in the financial world. Though the Speyers are important enough to be independent, Morgan's influence might have brought about peace.

MILL SUPERINTENDENTS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Convention of Interstate Association of Oil Mill Men Closed Friday

R. W. Rushton, of Savannah, was elected president of the Interstate Association of Oil Mill superintendents at the close of the fourth annual convention held in the auditorium-armory Friday. The other officers elected were O. H. Wells, of South Carolina, vice president, and Ben S. Ashley, secretary and treasurer.

The state vice presidents elected were N. B. Moore, of North Carolina; Fred Strickland, South Carolina, and J. A. Robinson, Georgia. J. W. Washington's name as vice president was twice proposed for both vice president at large and vice president from South Carolina, but he positively refused to allow his name to be used. He served the association as vice president last year.

So pleased were the 200 superintendents with the exhibits of the auxiliary that completely filled the auditorium that they voted to extend the meetings hereafter over four days in place of three, in order to give the men more time to look over the exhibits.

Seventy-five companies had exhibits in the auditorium, and manufacturers were represented from New York, Chicago, St. Louis and as far west as Texas. Atlanta was well represented and had the majority of exhibits on the floor.

F. C. Myers, secretary and treasurer of the exhibitors' association known as the Interstate Association of Mill Superintendents' auxiliary, was enthusiastic over the display made by the exhibitors, all of which were placed in the building overnight.

One of the features of the convention was the guessing contest held by the Cotton States Belting & Supply company of Atlanta as to how many cotton seeds were in a glass jar. A handsome gold watch offered for the nearest guess, the contestants being superintendents and their wives. The watch was won by E. P. Matthews, superintendent of the Upson county oil mill, Thomaston, Ga. His guess was 13,217. The correct number of seeds was 13,236. There were twenty-four who came within the 13,000 mark.

Friday afternoon the convention was entertained with a delightful barbecue given by the auxiliary at the 'Cue club grounds in East Point.

Besides the election of officers Friday the following papers were read: "My Method of Filing Linter Saws," by J. T. Holmes, the retiring president, and "Steam and Gas Engineering," by R. W. Rustin.

HEAVIER TAX TO BE LEVIED ON THE TOBACCO TRUST

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Legislation to carry out Attorney General McReynolds' plan plan to levy an additional excise tax on the production of the larger tobacco factories with the purpose of preventing control of the field by the former dominating factors of the "tobacco trust" was introduced today by Senator Hitchcock as an amendment to the tariff bill.

It would levy a heavy tax o nmanufactured by producing more than 80,000,000 pounds of tobacco or four million pounds of snuff annually. Seantor Hitchcock estimated that the tax would affect only three tobacco companies, two or three cigarette companies and two cigar companies. It would begin as soon as a constitutional amendment is proximately 25 per cent of the total production and probably bring the government $15,000,000 a year.

EXPECTS FLUX OF NEW MONEY INTO GEORGIA

W. H. Hillyer, Home From East, Says Southern Securities Are in Favor

Eastern capital is turning more and more to the south as a field for conservative investment, according to William Hurd Hillyer, who has just returned from an extensive trip through the larger northern cities. Mr. Hillyer's business brought him in contact with a number of leading bankers in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, and he expressed himself so very much pleased with the attitude assumed by financial men toward southern investment at this time.

"The prevailing tone of pessimism of Wall street and other financial sections does not seem to extend to southern properties," said Mr. Hillyer.

"The assumption is that fundamental conditions are somewhat better in the south, owing to the strategic position of that section as regards raw material and the labor problem. The unusually good behavior of southern securities on the New York exchange during repeated prolonged depression, as compared with seasoned railway stocks in other parts of the country, called forth a great deal of comment.

"Perhaps the greatest interest just at present is being manifested in southern mortgage loans. The recent violent fluctuations and continued uncertainty in the stock and bond market have caused investors to turn with great favor to the consideration of real estate securities. The liberal interest rates afforded by southern mortgages, safety and other factors being considered, is attracting more attention in eastern financial circles than at any previous time. I should not be surprised to see a great deal of northern money turned loose in Georgia in the next twelve months."

NEW COUNTY OF WINDER GIVEN INDORSEMENT

Cordele, Ga., June 6, 1913.

Editor The Journal:

The approaching session of the state legislature will be called on to create new counties. I am certain that each place making claim for a new county will be able to show fairly that their cause is a just one, and in this connection I wish to bring as forcibly as possible to the members of the legislature the claim of the people of Winder and its adjacent territory. There is not another town in the whole country situated like Winder. It is located in three different counties, three senatorial districts and two congressional districts. The county lines of Jackson, Walton and Gwinnett make a crazy quilt of the thriving and progressive city of Winder. Winder has a population of something like 2,000 or more, and is not a dead town by any means, and will grow continuously, therefore to force her people to do business in three counties, three senatorial districts and two congressional districts, seems altogether absolutely unnecessary. I hope that the creation of a new county for Winder will be one of the first acts of the general assembly when that body convenes.

ThisWonderful Blind Girl Stenographer Asks No Odds Because Day Is Night to Her

MISS JONES AT HER TYPEWRITER.

(Special Correspondence.)

COLUMBUS.—Supposing you were stricken blind today. Could you make a living?

Probably not. Then you can imagine the struggle Miss Hattie Jones, of Chillicothe, underwent to fit herself for the position of stenographer to Charles F. Campbell, chairman of the Ohio blind commission.

Losing her eyesight after an attack of measles, Miss Jones was forced to give up her position as stenographer ten years ago.

The world became dark to her, but her spirit remained bright. Through eight years of sickness which followed, Miss Jones repeatedly declared she would return to her old work, and she has, being now the only blind stenographer in the state.

Miss Jones takes dictation either "direct or from phonographic records. The letters she turns out are clean-cut and never misspelled.

"I have so much confidence in her accuracy that I seldom read the letters before signing them," said Campbell.

The girl employs a dot system which originated in France in taking memoranda of telephone calls which come in for Campbell while he is out.

She uses a small metal board with holes in it, which is placed over a white sheet of paper. With a small awl she punches holes or dashes into the spaces on the paper, using a code for the blind. Then, reversing the paper, Miss Jones runs her fingers over the upraised punches, reads the messages, writes it out on the typewriter and places it on Campbell's desk.

"Perseverance is the keynote of success," Miss Jones says. "A blind person need not give up hope."

Chamber of Commerce Plans That, for Permanent Exhibit, Dinner to Solons, Too

Two dinners in the early future are planned by the Atlanta chamber of commerce.

The first is to be a dinner at which the manufacturers of the city will be gathered.

The second is to be a dinner at which the chamber will play host to the new legislature of Georgia.

Plans for both feasts are under consideration, Friday afternoon, among the directors of the chamber.

Plans for the first already have reached the definite stage of a date—Tuesday evening, June 24. At that dinner Brooks Morgan, chairman of the chamber's committee on a permanent exhibit of Atlanta-made goods, will submit the report of his committee; and thereafter the discussion will be upon a permanent exhibit of that nature in Atlanta. In effect, the chamber of commerce by this method will put the matter up to the manufacturers squarely.

Plans for the dinner to the members of the 1913-14 legislature are tentative yet. Probably this dinner will be spread soon after the legislature convenes for its session—which it will do on the fourth Wednesday in June.

Wife's Plea to Be Divorced is Basis For Husband's Suit

Asserting that he was weary of his wife's insistent request that he grant her a divorce according to Jewish ritual so that she might go to her "affinity" without violating her religious scruples, Jacob Bellick, 312 Central avenue, instituted divorce proceedings against Mrs. Jennie Bellick in superior court Friday.

Mrs. Bellick, he told the court, admitted the existence of the soul mate in the person of Max Bender, now of Los Angeles. The petition set forth that Mrs. Bellick had frequently spoken of her affection for Bender in her husband's presence, and had importuned him, continually to release her from her religious bonds.

The strain of the situation, Bellick said, had caused him untold worry and made him neglect his business to such an extent that he was forced to seek the bankrupt court to find relief from his creditors.

Throug. his attorneys, Bell & Ellis, Fellick asked the court for a total divorce.

FULTON COUNTY DOCTORS FEAR FRIEDMANN "CURE"

Urge Health Authorities to Prohibit Its Use Until U. S. Gov't Reports Favorably

Resolutions urging the city board of health of Atlanta and the state board of health of Georgia to prohibit the use of the Friedmann vaccine for tuberculosis until the commission appointed by the United States government shall have reported favorably on the safety of such suggestions, have been adopted by the Fulton County Medical society.

The resolutions are as follows:

"Whereas, The reports upon the Friedmann treatment have been more or less unfavorable, showing the results in all cases treated to be practically negative and in some cases a strong probability of harm having been done;

"Whereas, There is always an element of danger of injecting living germs into the tissues, however much these germs may be attenuated, by them returning to their former virulence and activity in the tissues and by producing infection or stimulating the infection that already exists to greater activity;

"Whereas, the Friedmann company has already sent agents into this state with the object of establishing a Friedmann institute and to treat patients, and

"Whereas, the board of health of New York City, after careful investigation, has closed up the institution established in that city on account of it being strongly probable that said institution was a menace to public health,

"Be it Resolved, That the Fulton County Medical society recommend to the city board of health and to the state board of health that they use measures to prevent the Friedmann vaccine or any living tubercle bacilli to be injected into the tissues of human beings until the commission appointed by the United States government has reported favorably upon the safety of such injections or until the said health boards have satisfied themselves in some other way that these injections will not do ultimate harm to the individual treated.

"Be It Resolved, Further, That the secretary place a copy of these resolutions in the hands of the secretaries of the respective boards, and furnish a copy to the local daily papers."

TURKS' DEMANDS MAKE PEACE IMPOSSIBLE

Demands on Greeks by Ottomans Halts Peace Negotiations

LONDON, June 6.—Unless Turkey modifies her protocol demands the peace delegates may hold no other meetings here after tomorrow. Briefly, Turkey refuses to satisfy the Greek claims to the re-enactment of the privileges enjoyed before the war by Hellenic subjects residing in Turkish territory.

While refusing this, Turkey demands from the allies still greater privileges for Turkish subjects. The gulf between the two yawns so wide that a continuation of the conference at St. James palace seems useless.

The Servian delegates will attempt tomorrow to reconcile the claims of Turkey and Greece on a basis of arrangements made at the time of the Berlin treaty, but there is little hope this will succeed. If Turkey continues obdurate it is probable that the delegates will leave London at an early date.

The ambassadorial conference today discussed the constitution of Albania on a basis of providing for the establishment of a provisional regime, subject to further adjustment and adapted to local conditions, under a high commissioner nominated by the powers.

The Daily Telegraph's Belgrade correspondent says that the meeting of the Balkan premiers has been arranged to take place at Saloniki next Sunday.

A touch of humor has been added to the Greek-Bulgar dispute by the Bulgarian request that Greece provide ships for the transport of the Bulgar forces from Tchatalja to Kavala. To this Greece replied that all her ships were busy carrying troops between Piraeus and Saloniki.

Suffragettes Almost Interrupt Peace Meet

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, June 6.—Militant suffragettes today almost succeeded in interrupting the deliberations of the peace conference between the delegates of the Balkan allies and Turkey by organizing a demonstration outside St. James palace during the session.

The Women's Freedom League called a meeting "to protest against the government's supposition that it was able to secure peace abroad while unable to maintain peace at home." The police warned the organizers that the meeting was illegal.

A large crowd of hostile persons pulled the speakers from the wagon they were using as a platform and finally the police arrested three of the speakers.

English Government Discovers Plot of Anti-Home Rulers in Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland, June 6.—A sensation was caused by the seizure today by the customs authorities of a consignment of 500 rifles and bayonets on board of steamer from Liverpool. The arms were addressed to Baron Farnham, an Irish peer, at his country seat, Farnham, county Cavan.

CIGAR SMOKERS MAY BE PROTECTED BY TARIFF

Senator Fletcher Wants Government to Inspect "Pure Havanas" and Label 'Em

BY RALPH SMITH

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 6.—Aiming to protect the cigar smokers of America from fraud through the sale of adulterated and mislabeled cigars, and to increase the federal revenue from the importation of Cuban tobaccos, Senator Fletcher, of Florida, has proposed an amendment to the administrative clause of the pending tariff bill that will probably be accepted by the finance committee. The senator proposes to accomplish for the cigar smokers in a few words substantially the same thing that was accomplished by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley and the pure food crusaders through the enactment of the pure food law.

The Fletcher amendment provides that the United States government shall inspect and stamp all cigars manufactured in America of pure Havana tobacco. The expense of the inspection shall be borne entirely by the tobacco manufacturers themselves. He believes the effect of this inspection and labeling will be to increase the importation of tobacco from Cuba in the same proportion that the enforcement of the law will clear the cigar market of mislabeled and fraudulent "imported" cigars. He thinks that quite a tidy sum o frevenue will be thus raised.

It has come to the attention of Senator Fletcher, who represents large cigar manufacturing interests situated at Tampa and Key West, that millions of "imported" cigars, made of domestic filler and Porto Rican wrappers, are sold to the unsuspecting smoking public every year. The average smoker thinks he is getting a clear Havana, and pays accordingly. He doesn't get what he pays for, and the government doesn't get any revenue from the "imported" tobacco.

SENATOR FLETCHER TALKS.

"If it is required by law that all cigars made of imported tobacco or sold as 'clear Havanas' must bear the government stamps, a great measure of protection will be afforded the consuming public," said Senator Fletcher today. "The market would be ri dof millions of fraudulent cigars. The importation of tobacco from Cuba would increase correspondingly, and the government would reap a big revenue."

When it is considered that last year there were manufactured in the United States nearly $700,000 worth of cigars, and that a large percentage of these were made of "imported" tobacco, the extent of the profits of the fraudulent cigar makers will be appreciated.

The tariff tax on genuine imported tobacco, practically all of which comes from Cuba, is $1.85 a pound on wrappers and 70 cents a pound on filler. It is unknown and, of course, impossible to estimate the number of fraudulent "imported" cigars manufactured in America, but it is safe to estimate that the government has lost millions of dollars in revenue through the mis-branding of cigars.

A larger proportion of the genuine "clear Havana" cigars manufactured in America are the product of the factories at Tampa and Key West. The total output of cigars of the factories of these Florida cities last year approximated $300,000,000. The Key West and Tampa manufacturers complain that they cannot continue to compete with the fraudulent cigar manufacturers, and that is one of the reasons they are behind the Fletcher amendment. If the product of their factories bears the government stamp, a guarantee from Uncle Sam that their cigars are as represented, then they feel that other manufacturers will have to meet their competition or quit business.

There is some opposition to the Fletcher amendment. It comes ostensibly from the growers of domestic tobacco, most of which is used for filler. It is not believed, however, that they will suffer any actual loss, or that there will be any material lessened demand for their product. There is unquestionably a market for domestic cigars, and if the domestic filler is placed on an honest basis it is believed that the supply will be exhausted every year by the manufacturers of domestic cigars. It is contended also that the domestic tobacco growers will recognize the importance of improving their product, and that in time the American cigar tobacco may compete with the imported weed.

Cyclorama Skylight Blown Out by Wind; Painting in Danger

The skylight of the cyclorama building in Grant park was almost entirely blown away by the hard wind Thursday afternoon, and as a result the great painting of the battle of Atlanta is in danger and it may be necessary temporarily to close the building for fear the remains of the skylight may fall on spectators.

Fortunately the wind, though hard enough to play havoc with the skylight, did not blow with sufficient violence to drive the rain back under the roof, or otherwise the painting today might be ruined beyond repair.

The building is circular and the painting is against the wall around this circle. The skylight is in the center of the roof and thus when the rain fell through it did not touch the painting. But a harder wind is liable to blow the rain far enough to reach it, before the skylight can be repaired.

The skylight accident serves to emphasizes the necessity for a new cyclorama building. The present building, besides being a ramshackle affair which a hard wind might blow down entirely, is furthermore a fire-trap. A match carelessly dropped in dry weather would reduce the famous battle painting to ashes before the fire department could possibly save it.

The city park board repeatedly has asked council to provide money to build a new, up-to-date, fire-proof building. Last year $15,000 was appropriated as a "starter" in the January budget. In the October budget it was taken away and used for something else, the park board having waited in the hope of getting the balance necessary. This year nothing was appropriated.

City Public Schools Close for Vacation

Twenty-five thousand girls and boys filed out the doors of Atlanta's public schools Friday morning, not to return until the long summer vacation is ended next September.

Teachers and scholars look back upon a prosperous year, and look forward to a happy three months of recreation and rest. Everybody was busy Friday except the children, the teachers winding up the affairs of the year. Superintendent Sloton slinging his pen across some 600 or more checks, and the members of the board of education busily racking their heads to meet the problems which will have to be met next fall.

One of these is a shortage of teachers which will have to be filled next year. According to Superintendent Slaton, there will hve to be a number of new ones enrolled next fall, and he announced that examinations of candidates will be held August 15 and 16 at the Boys' High school.

Mr. Slaton says that the enrollment in the public schools this year was 1,094 more than last year. He predicts that by next year the enrollment will reach 27,000.

A. S. COLYAR IS AGAIN RELEASED FROM CUSTODY

Tennessee Requisition Papers Not Forthcoming, So Judge Orders His Release

A. S. Colyar, who was arrested by a sheriff's deputy Thursday while waiting to be called as a witness before the Fulton county grand jury, was released from custody by Judge J. T. Pendleton Friday afternoon.

Colyar was arrested on a warrant from Knoxville, Tenn., said to be the same warrant upon which he was arrested several days ago by the police. Sheriff C. W. Mangum wired the chief of police of Knoxville to send the necessary requisition papers.

Not having heard from his telegram the sheriff fent before Judge Pendleton Friday afternoon to whom Colyar had applied for a writ of habeas corpus, and stated the facts in the case. It was then that Judge Pendleton ordered Colyar's release. Colyar was represented by Attorney John Y. Smith.

WOMEN TELL RECORDER THEY WON'T REFORM

Rather than go to a home where they would have a chance to reform, Alma Barrett and Mrs. F. J. Rathnaw, arrested by Chief Beavers' vice squad Thursday night, demanded that they be given a jail sentence when they were brought before City Recorder Broyles Friday morning.

"We don't want to reform," said one of the women to the recorder. "Send us to jail, so we can serve our time and have it over with."

The women were arrested in the Prankfort hotel, 27 1-2 South Pryor street.

Would Find Doggie's Grave to Put in It Trinklets He Liked

Does anybody know of a little unclaimed dog's grave anywhere in the city, or of a negro undertaker who makes a specialty of burying dead canines?

If there is such a person, Mrs. J. Dupre, of 42 Hendrix avenue, wants to find him, for she is trying to find the last resting place of her little rat terrier that died of bronchitis several days ago, or the colored undertaker who kindly offered to conduct a funeral over the remains for a dollar and a half. She has appealed to the police.

Thursday afternoon she called up the police station and asked that the undertaker be found. Later she disclosed the facts to the desk sergeant on a personal visit. She said that on the night of May 29 the dog was taken suddenly ill. She called in City Veterinary Dr. Carnes. The latter diagnosed the illness as bronchitis and prescribed a remedy. He was too late to save the patient, however. The pet died the next day. Mrs. Dupre wept and in the middle of her sorrowing a negro arrived and asked to see after the last rites over the remains. She consented. The negro walked off with the dog and that is the last she has seen of either.

When she got to the police station Thursday she said she wanted to locate the grave so she could bury a few trinkets that the little dog liked beside him. She also had a little placard bearing a verse, which she wanted to use to mark the abode of her pets body.

Patrolman Lyman went to the office of Dr. Carnes with Mrs. Dupre in an effort to get track of the dog funeral director, but the trip was futile.

The matter has been referred to the detective department.

Burning, Itching Sensation, Hair Began to Fall Out. Could Scarcely Part It. Would Lie Awake Half the Night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Cured.

1920 W. Cedar St., Louisville, Ky.—"One evening while combing my hair I felt a sore in my head. I scratched it before I knew it and it produced a burning, itching sensation. The sores itched so that I was compelled to scratch them. My hair gradually began to fall out. The dandruff came on my head so badly I could scarcely part it for the crusts of dandruff. Sometimes I would lie awake half the night. My head itched so badly that I did not know what to do. I used remedies but without success. Finally I was advised by a friend to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I simply used them as the directions said and they produced a complete cure in about two weeks. Now I have a clean scalp." "All Work and No Play"

Following Our Now Well-Established Custom, the Store Closes Tomorrow at 1 o'Clock

The Saturday half holidays for the summer begin tomorrow!

They come as a little "breathing spell" for those who serve you and us faithfully through the long days of the year—and may they thoroughly enjoy them! Nor are we speaking out of pure philanthropy—it is tinged with business judgment, or perhaps, with the psychology of business, we are simply putting into practice the old adage about all work and no play.

We want bright, smiling, happy people about us. We long ago recognized the Saturday half holiday as a helpful means to this end.

We trust that whatever slight inconvenience it may cause, you, our big public, will be more than offset by the renewed energy and vigor and happy smiles that our people will bring with them on Monday mornings.

Were Toilet Articles Ever So Priced?

And right now comes the BIG season of toilet articles, when the sun is hot and when comfort depends so much upon the means we take to acquire it.

There is no telling you how much you will save—at one time it is a half, again it's four-fifths, again it's five-sixths—but such fractions mean little. Read the actual savings.

MONEY FOR CREMATORY IS PROVIDED BY COUNCIL

Mayor Woodward Is Expected to Give His Approval—Whitehall Regrading

The June budget, carrying $260,000 to pay for the new crematory, was passed in special session Thursday afternoon, and the aldermanic board, which met immediately afterward, concurred in council's action.

The budget is now before Mayor Woodward for his approval or disapproval, and the probability is that he will approve it. He said Friday that so far as he knew, without having examined the budget, it contains nothing that will cause him to veto it.

Owing to a technicality the new crematory contract could not be passed Thursday, as intended. City Attorney Mayson ruled that the money must first be in the budget to pay for the crematory, before a contract could be made. Hence the contract had to be deferred until after the mayor should have passed on the sheet, and council therefore adjourned to a special session on next Wednesday for the purpose of passing the contract.

WHITEHALL REGRADING.

In addition to the crematory appropriation, the budget carries $5,500 to begin the regrading of Whitehall street, and this is something which council had not expected to be able to provide. At the last moment Thursday the money was "found" by taking a little here and there from various other appropriations.

While the people interested in the Whitehall project asked for $30,000, they are satisfied to get $5,500 as a starter. Owing to the peculiar grade on Whitehall street as it now stands, this amount will be sufficient to do a complete job. There are two "humps" in the street between Mitchell and Brotherton. The sum provided will cut down the first one. The other can be cut down later.

The situation created by the supreme court's decision in the crematory case—a situation making it absolutely necessary for the city to raise more money either by issuing bonds or raising the tax rate—was emphasized Thursday afternoon by resolutions looking to a solution.

The finance committee introduced a resolution indorsing a bond issue as the best method of providing the many special improvements that are obliged to be had, and this resolution was passed unanimously. A special committee will be appointed to go into the subject thoroughly, the committee consisting of one council member from each of the ten wards, and five citizens from the city at large.

JUDGE CANDLER'S RESOLUTION.

Alderman Candler introduced a resolution looking to a different solution. His provides that the legislature be asked to submit to the voters a constitutional amendment allowing municipalities to issue bonds on consent of two-thirds of those voting. This also was passed.

In explaining his resolution, Alderman Candler said the present constitutional restriction on municipal bond issues, requiring the consent of two-thirds of all the voters on the registration list, makes bonds extremely difficult, as everyone knows. He said every municipality in Georgia is affected by the supreme court's decision equally with Atlanta, and therefore he believed an amendment such as he proposed would commend itself to the voters of all the municipalities.

POISONING FROM FOOD

Every Bite May Poison—All Could Be Methuselahs If We Did Not Shorten Life by Self-Poisoning.

All food eaten leaves in the stomach some waste, unused particles. This waste ferments and generates uric acid, and when uric acid gets in the blood it poisons the system. This is termed Autotoxemia, or Self-Poisoning. Constipation, indigestion, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick headache, languidness and a weakened physical condition result. Eliminate Autotoxemia, and we could live to be hundreds of years old.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT flushes stomach and bowels, dissolves the uric acid which has accumulated and expels it with the fermenting waste.

Take JACOBS' LIVER SALT in the morning before breakfast. You will do a better day's work, and with the consciousness that your health is safeguarded against any indiscretion in eating.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is better than calomel for constipation and biliousness. Acts quickly and more thoroughly, requiring no cleansing after-dose; causes no after-danger of salivation; never gripes or nauseates. No other liver medicine is equal to it; don't take the inferior substitute that may be offered. All druggists should have the genuine JACOBS' LIVER SALT. 25c. Second Divorce From Same Husband Asked Now By Mrs. J. J. Lee

Declaring that her second marriage experience with the same man proved more disillusioning than the first, Mrs. Cora L. Lee, of 388 Peachtree street, brought suit for divorce Friday in superior court against J. J. Lee, an employe of the Central of Georgia railroad.

Mrs. Lee asserts in her petition, filed by her attorney, Lawton Nalley, that she had married Lee some seventeen years ago and divorced him when his treatment of her became unbearable.

On insistent promises that he would mend his ways, she tells the court, she agreed to a second marriage. A few months after the second ceremony, she said, he resumed his abuse and, unable to endure it, she left him.

She asked the court for alimony, both permanent and temporary, and for the custody of her child, Joe Lee.

Says U. D. C. Made Mistake in Choice Of Historical Spot

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., June 6.—The residence of Mrs. W. C. Huff, on Selvidge street, and not the old Tibbs home on North Hamilton street, was headquarters of General Joseph E. Johnston while his army was in winter quarters here, according to a statement made by Dr. J. E. Wright, of McAlester, Okla., on a visit here this week. Dr. Wright is dean of the Oklahoma State Dental association. His statement, which he is willing to back with an affidavit, again raises the question which is of great interest to the Daughters of the Confederacy, veterans and others, who had accepted the Tibbs house as Johnston's headquarters.

Dr. Wright was, during the winter of 1863-64, special messenger to General Johnston, carrying telegrams to him night and day, and is positive in his statement as to where Johnston had headquarters. He states that the house was then known as the Dr. Black place.

Atlanta Man Succeeds Late Ex-Gov. Northen—Inherits Mercer Traditions

Hugh M. Willet, of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company, has been elected a trustee of Mercer university. He has been placed on the prudential committee, the most important organization of the college, which manages the affairs of the institution throughout the year.

Mr. Willet is an active church worker and is a deacon in the First Baptist church. He has been a resident of Atlanta for a number of years.

The place which Mr. Willet was elected to fill upon the board is the vacancy left recently by the death of former Governor W. J. Northen. Willilet, was professor of natural science at Mercer for nearly fifty years. Mr. Willet is a graduate of Mercer, and has displayed much interest in the college and in education in general.

MANY SAY $451,428.57 ANSWERS M'CRORY QUIZ

Either over twenty people are mistaken or the correct answer to the arithmetical problem of Representative McCrory is $451,428.57.

The following problem was submitted through The Journal to its readers some time ago: If the people of Georgia paid $1.75 for school books for which Canada paid 79 cents, what do the Canadians pay for books whic hcost Georgian's $1,000,000?

Numerous answers have come in of the figures already given. Others who have worked on the proposition differ as to the correct solution, and as yet the correct answer is not definitely known.

Those who have sent in $451,428.57 as their answer are: J. H. Woodward, of Buffalo, S. C.; F. B. Culver, Jr., of Dothan, Ala; McKenzie Dallas, of Thomasville, Ga.; Paul Maynard, of Hoschton, Ga.; B. C. Harrell, of Havana, Fla.; Cyrus H. Lawrence, of Copperhill, Tenn.; Joe H. The solution of Mrs. Augusta Prickette, of 208 Rawson street, city, is $451,428.12, only slightly different from the others in the matter of cents.

J. A. Avret, of Rutledge, Ga., calls attention to his answer of $321,428.57, turned in some time ago, saying it was based on the cost of 59 cents in Ontario rather than 79 cents, as is correct. James Guerry, of Evergreen, Ala., offers $662,857.14 as his solution.

CONLEY STICKS TO HIS STORY, DECLARES DETECTIVE CHIEF

partial and respected citizens of this community, and as solicitor general of this circuit, charged with the duty of aiding in the enforcement of our laws by the prosecution of those indicted for violating the law, I welcome all evidence from any source that will aid an impartial jury, under the charge of the court, in determining the guilt or innocence of the accused.

"Perhaps the most unpleasant feature incident to the position of prosecuting attorney arises from the fact that punishment of the guilty inevitably brings suffering to relations who are innocent of participation in the crime, but who must share the humiliation flowing from its exposure.

"This, however, is an evil attendant upon crime, and the courts and their officers cannot allow their sympathies for innocent to retard the vigorous prosecution of those indicted for the commission of crime, for were it otherwise, sentiment and not justice, would dominate the administration of our laws.

"HUGH M. DORSEY."

Minola McKnight, the negress whose arrest is prominently mentioned in Mrs. Frank's statement, has returned to her work as a cook in the Selig family, and she has repudiated the affidavit said to have been signed by her at police headquarters.

The chief of detectives, Newport A. Lanford, is not at all disturbed, he says, by the charges of Mrs. Frank, and has made no answer.

TRIAL JUNE 30.

If nothing unexpected occurs the state will be ready to proceed with the trial of Leo Frank on the week of June 30—the second week in the June session of criminal division of superior court. Solicitor Dorsey made it plain Friday that he expected to call the case Monday, June 30, and the trial would be staged then if the defense was willing to proceed.

Chief Lanford Puts Lid on Phagan News

As the result of the agitation, said to have originated with Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey, the chief of the city detective department, has issued a new order prohibiting the men from giving out any information concerning the cases on which the department is at work.

The order, which reads as follows, was issued and read to the men Thursday morning just before the chief left headquarters to go before the grand jury:

"Special Order No. 6—No information pertaining to any cases worked by this department shall be given out by any of the men. All such information shall come through the head of the department. Any man violating this rule shall be subject to immediate suspension.

"N. A. LANFORD,
"Chief of Detectives."

While the chief's order was issued Thursday and cannot be said to be the result of any grand jury recommendation, the official stated that he was taken to task by the grand jury because so much information about the Phagan case had found its way to the newspapers.

The grand jury is said to have probed alleged "leakages" from the department to the newspapers.

CHIEF'S EXPLANATION.

Chief Lanford states that the issuance of the order should not be taken to mean that he does not have confidence in his men. "I received a letter early Thursday morning from Solicitor General Dorsey urging me to take steps to prevent the 'leakage of information,' declared the chief, "and it was to satisfy the solicitor that I issued the order."

The chief stated that while it was true that a large part of the evidence gathered by the detectives in the Phagan case had found its way into the newspapers this does not mean that the detectives gave it out.

"When there is an especially interesting investigation in progress," said the chief, "a small army of keen-witted reporters invade police headquarters. These reporters are both shrewd and resourceful. They see who is interrogated and it is almost a matter of impossibility for any person who has been closeted with the detectives to get away from the station house without from two to a half dozen reporters 'arming' him and plying him with questions.

"Under these circumstances it is not surprising that the newspapers frequently obtain information within a few minutes after it gets into the hands of the detectives. Oftentimes, in order to prevent inaccuracies which might prove serious, we find it advisable to set the reporters right.

AN INSTANCE OF ENTERPRISE.

"Just as an illustration of the enterprise of the newspaper reporters, I wish to call attention to an incident which occurred late Tuesday afternoon. Detectives Starnes and Campbell had hardly finished obtaining the affidavit from Minola McKnight, the negro cook at the Frank home, when a reporter called me from The Atlanta Journal office and outlined to me the contents of the affidavit. I did not at the time know myself what was in the affidavit. At my earnest request the reporter refrained from publishing this information in his late editions, it being understood that if, after I read the affidavit I found that there had been a 'leak' I would give it out for publication. This I did on Wednesday.

"Now, this reporter did not obtain his information from any one connected with the police or detective departments. Of that I am sure. However, I do not know just where the 'leak' was, but that there was one is an established fact."

Chief Lanford states that in the future he will have regular hours for receiving reporters.

SOLICITOR'S STATEMENT.

Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey declared Friday that "leaks" in evidence in the prosecution of the Phagan case had not emanated from his office nor from the police detectives—Messrs. Campbell and Starnes—who are working hand in glove with the prosecuting attorney. He was certain, he asserted, that nothing bearing on the case had been given publicity by them.

"This office," said the solicitor, "has been 'mum' on every matter considered of importance in this case. My own men always have had explicit instructions to give out nothing, and I am sure that Detectives Starnes and Campbell have told nothing."

The solicitor declined to discuss for publication the McKnight incident and asserted that his formal statement given to the newspapers Thursday afternoon would be his only reply to the accusations made against him by Mrs. Leo M. Frank.

What's in a Name?

(Modern Miller.)

"Advertising flour from 'selected' wheat in order to tempt the public is a good deal like the negro's hot pies," says a miller in commenting on a bargain flour advertisement. The negro shouted, 'Hot pies, hot pies!' And a hungry black brother who bought one found it some cold. In answer to his complaint, the seller said: 'Why, dat's de name of de pie.'" the sundries schedule. The argument is that 95 per cent of the films used in this country are manufactured by one American concern.

G. Gennert, of New York, today filed a brief asking that all photographic films be free listed, on the ground that the Eastman Kodak company has a monopoly of the business.

"That corporation has been and is conducting its business in films and other photographic goods in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law," said Gennert.

The Eastman company has filed a brief protesting against free listing films, on the ground that the raw materials are dutiable.

PRINCETON STUDENTS MOTOR FROM NEW YORK

Three young Princeton men, representing three corners of the United States, arrived at the Georgian Terrace Friday morning, having made the trip from New York by motor in five days. The student-tourists were W. W. Duke, of Los Angeles, Cal.; W. B. Hayes, Waco, Tex., and J. J. Bettis, Jacksonville, Fla.

Thanks to The Journal-Herald yellow signs, which the tourists declared were no end of help to them, they experienced no trouble in finding their way. Their trip was uneventful, with the exception of one "hoodoo day," when four inner tubes blew out. This was near Charlotte, and a whole day was lost until new tubes could be telegraphed for. Leaving out this time, the running time of the trip was exactly four and one-half days. And it rained most of the way.

The roads, with the exception of those over the Blue Ridge mountains, were found in good shape.

The tourists will spend a couple of days in Atlanta, and then the two westerners will hike for Chattanooga, and thence to Texas and to California. Mr. Duke drove his car to Princeton across the country last fall.

an investment of $1,500,000 in two Pittsburg newspapers and coal shares.

"I never sought to influence any senator in regard to the tariff on any of the articles in which I am concerned," said he, "nor has anyone sought to influence me improperly."

Mr. Oliver declined to give his investments in copper or in other lines that he said were not affected by the tariff or other legislation before congress.

"I am perfectly willing to give the public an inventory of everything I own," he said, "but I do not think the purpose of this investigation is to secure an inventory of every senator's property."

Senator Walsh insisted that it was pertinent to ask how much Oliver had invested in copper properties.

"I cannot concede your right to ask that," returned Senator Oliver.

"You're dead right," interjected Senator Nelson, a Republican member of the committee.

Senator Reed agreed with Senator Walsh and Senator Cummins with Senator Nelson. Chairman Overman was absent. It was a tie.

Senator Oliver said he knew of no steel lobby and no representatives of the steel interests maintained in Washington on tariff or other questions.

Senator Dupont, of Delaware, said he owned several farms, 1,000 shares in the Pennsylvania Steel company, 1,000 shares in the Cambria Steel company, 1,000 shares in the National Biscuit company and no powder stock.

"When I came to the senate I had a small amount of stock in the Dupont Powder company, but I disposed of that long ago," said he. "I have never felt it proper, however, for me to take part in any debates in the senate involving powder questions or to talk with senators about the subject."

Senator Dupont said that although he was a member of the senate military committee, the committee had acted without his co-operation upon legislation concerning powder.

Senator Thomas said he had declined

IMPOSSIBLE TO CRUSH OTHERS, SAYS ROBERTS

NEW YORK, June 6.—It would be a physical impossibility for the United States Steel corporation to drive its competitors out of business, according to Perceival Roberts, Jr., one time president of the American Bridge company and now a director in the corporation, who testified today in the government's dissolution suit against the corporation.

The nature of the steel business is such, he added, that should trade war be inaugurated, the corporation would suffer as much as the small concerns. He denied that the corporation had ever attempted to crush a rival by cutting prices in the rival's territory.

to take part in consideration of the lead and zinc provisions because of his mining interests which include $2,700 worth of stock in the Del Monte Leasing company; $80,000 worth of the Volunteer Mining company, and $100,000 in the Creed Mines company, limited. Senator Thomas said the only remark to him that might be considered "improper" came from Henry Oxford, who represented beet sugar interests.

There had been a persistent effort to influence his action on sugar, wool and lead, Senator Thomas said, through a great number of letters and telegrams from Colorado and the Rocky Mountain states.

Senator Thomas said the anti-free sugar campaign of the beet sugar forces was the only one of an anonymous character, while the wool and other interests had worked openly, he said.

Opens Way for "New and Interesting Negotiations

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The outline of Japan's latest note, as contained in the Tokio dispatches, was received in Washington with the greatest interest by officials and diplomatists. The note was read to the cabinet at the regular meeting today.

Diplomatists agreed generally that the new point referred to by President Wilson yesterday as opening the field for "new and interesting negotiations," was Japan's contention that the anti-alien land law violated the fourteenth amendment to the constitution.

It was accepted that Japan refers to that clause which declares that no state shall "deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Acute Indigestion

T. M. WORD.

For several years my wife suffered frequent attacks with acute indigestion. These attacks in their alarming frequency became the dread of my life. My wife never knew what she could eat without taking the risk of one of these attacks. We tried every remedy we could hear of with only temporary relief. Sitting in my office one morning, feeling very despondent after spending a sleepless night and the terrible suspense over the alarming condition of my wife, a friend called my attention to Nuxcara, the wonderful stomach remedy, stating that Nuxcara would cure her without a doubt. I at once put her on the treatment with the most happy results. She is entirely cured, and is in better health than she has been for years; eats anything she wants—Nuxcara is the most wonderful remedy I ever heard of.

My wife was so delighted with her experience with Nuxcara that she prevailed upon me to take it myself. I was suffering with a catarrhal condition which affected my liver and kidneys. I had been under the treatment of a specialist for my kidneys who kept me on a diet for several months, but my condition seemed to grow worse and I was in a state of mind to make a change, so I began to take Nuxcara, which completely cured me in a short time. My health is perfect. I eat and sleep well; in fact, I never felt better in my life. I regard Nuxcara as an achievement in science unparalleled, a remedy which has no equal in all forms of stomach trouble. T. M. Word, 312 Cherokee avenue.

Demonstration of the wonderful merits of Nuxcara at Coursey & Munn's, corner Marietta and Broad streets, by Dr. Shelnutt from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. every day.

Acute Indigestion

Threatens every one who has any disturbance of the digestive system—an uncomfortable feeling after eating is a warning which should not go unheeded, but Nuxcara should be taken at once and restore the digestive organs to a healthy condition, when there will be no danger from this often fatal attack. Nuxcara is guaranteed to be a positive and certain cure. The distress after eating is promptly relieved by a dose of Nuxcara.

Nuxcara

Is a scientific remedy which has been prescribed by eminent physicians for years with the most gratifying results in all forms of stomach troubles. Nuxcara was tested for ten years before offering it to the world as a positive and certain cure for indigestion, dyspepsia, catarrh and all the many evils following the poisoning of the system with toxines from undigested and decomposing food in the digestive tracts. One may take digestive agents and relieve an attack of indigestion, but the poison generated through the decomposition of the undigested food may remain in the system for days before eliminated, and furnish the primary cause of another attack, besides setting up structural changes in the organisms. Nuxcara is positive and certain; restores the system to perfect health.—(Advt.)

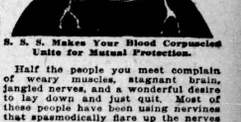
Wan, Weary and Worn Out

If You Feel Fagged to a Finish and Utterly Used Up Here is Quick Relief.



S. S. S. Makes Your Blood Corpuscles Unite for Mutual Protection.

Half the people you meet complain of weary muscles, stagnant brain, jangled nerves, and a wonderful desire to lay down and just quit. Most of these people have been using nerves that spasmodically flare up the nerves only to die down again, as die they must. Avoid nerve stimulants. Bear in mind that this worn out feeling is due to poor blood, to bacteria in the water you drink; to the multiplying of destructive germs in the blood faster than they can be overcome by the white corpuscles; and to what is known as auto-toxemia, that condition where the venous or impure blood accumulates faster than it can be replaced by the red arterial blood.

The medicinal value of the components of S. S. S. is relatively just as vital and essential to well-balanced health as those of the grains, meats, fats and sugars of our food.

If you feel played out go to any drug store and ask for a bottle of S. S. S., Swift's Sure Specific. Here is a remedy that gets at work in a twinkling; it just naturally rushes right into your blood, scatters germs right and left, up and down and sideways.

You feel better at once, not from a stimulant, not from the action of drugs, but from the rational effect of a natural medicine just as active and just as timely as to a man who has been lost in the mountains, is about starved and comes across a settler just cooking a savory meal of good honest beef. Do not neglect to get a bottle of S. S. S. to-day. It will make you feel better in just a few minutes. It is prepared only in the laboratory of the Swift Specific Co., 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Who says Atlanta isn't versatile, with fishing and bathing at Piedmont Park?

The cotton planter doesn't like that expression, "It's a bear."

The Truth About Sugar.

"Every county in Kansas raises fruit, and almost every housewife in Kansas uses sugar to preserve the fruit. Kansas is a great sugar-consuming State. A couple of counties in western Kansas produce sugar beets for the production of beet sugar. The Wilson tariff bill proposes to lower the price of sugar to the people of all the counties of the State. The protectionists propose to assess the sugar users of all the counties of the State to help the beet sugar industry in the two western counties. That's the theory of the high tariff advocates—to tax the many in order to help the few."

With these few strokes of homely fact, the Kansas City Star, a newspaper noted for its independence in politics, lays bare the flimsy claim that an immediate reduction and the ultimate removal of the tariff on sugar would be a business calamity and a public misfortune. Senators have doubtless been flooded with pamphlets and resolutions declaring that the pending tariff bill would destroy the great beet sugar industries of Kansas. Yet the truth is that where two counties might be affected disadvantageously the State as a whole would be benefited; and for every person who could possibly be harmed, tens of thousands would be helped.

Apply the same principle to the entire country and you have the wisdom and the justice of downward tariff revision. It is poor business as well as poor government to tax the many simply in order to help the few; and particularly is that true when the tax in question serves to bolster up inefficient methods of business and to crush the spirit of free initiative and wholesome competition which are essential to commercial progress. The great significance of the tariff bill about to be enacted is that it gives precedence to the country's common interests over special interests; and if that is not one of the chief ends of democratic government, then the term democracy is meaningless.

Nobody is complaining about the income tax, but now they are talking about taxing our tobacco.

President Wilson is saving the newspapers of the country a lot of printer's ink that used to go on long presidential "statements."

Atlanta-Made Goods.

The recent inspection of Chattanooga's permanent industrial exhibit by a party from the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has given fresh impetus to the movement to establish a similar but more extensive exhibition of this city's manufactured products. The Chattanooga display, as the Atlantians observed, is not only a striking revelation of home enterprises but also a stimulus to trade. It attracts visitors from the entire surrounding country and brings to that community a steady volume of patronage which otherwise would drift to distant markets. The merchants and manufacturers of Chattanooga testify with enthusiasm to the advertising value and the rich results of their exhibit and declare that they have been compensated many times over for every dollar invested in this plan.

When her neighboring cities are taking such steps to impress their advantages upon the South and to unbuild their industrial interests, Atlanta cannot afford to remain inactive. There is perhaps no other city in the South and few in all the Union that have so fertile opportunities to become a really great manufacturing and export center. Atlanta factories are now producing between eight hundred and a thousand different articles of use and the value of their annual output aggregates millions of dollars. Its railway facilities link the city to numberless points of trade throughout the South.

But if all these natural resources are to count for what they are worth, they must be given wide and constant publicity. The progressive merchants of Georgia and other States must be shown that they can buy in Atlanta more cheaply and more advantageously than in faraway eastern markets. As a means to this end, the proposed exhibit of the city's manufactured products is warmly to be commended. Such an exposition so located as to be conveniently accessible to the thousands of visitors who are continually in Atlanta would do more perhaps than any other one enterprise to exploit the city's industrial interests. It would become one of the South's great show-places and would prove through daily, concrete example just what advantages Atlanta offers the purchaser of stocks and the investor of capital. It is to be hoped that the plans now afoot in this direction will soon materialize.

The fishing season is on at Piedmont Park, but your city fisherman hesitates about getting up so far ahead of breakfast.

Another reason why Socialists increase: a steamship was delayed fifteen minutes to allow J. Pierpont Morgan to tell his sister goodbye.

An Asinine Slander.

It fortunately happens in most instances that slander carries its own refutation. Certainly, that is true of the irresponsible gossip attributed in news dispatches to one Rev. Mr. Batten who is quoted as having said in Philadelphia that vice conditions in Atlanta are "amazingly rotten," worse, indeed, than in San Francisco during its most sordid era. Without repeating in detail the statements which this minister, if minister he can be called, is said to have made, we may assert advisedly that they are so absurdly extreme as to bear upon their very face the stamp or falsity; no one of soundl wits or mora sense could sponsor them.

"To anyone who can report truthfully such experiences as this Dr. Batten now alleges," says Chief Beavers of the police department, "I will give six months of my salary.' And from Mr. Marion Jackson, chairman of the executive committee of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, we have this striking comment: "I have visited a good many cities but I have yet to see one or even hear of one in which conditions are as bad as this preacher would paint them in Atlanta." No one can impute to the Men and Religion Forward Movement any motive or intention to minimize vice conditions. It is their constant effort to discover the facts precisely as they are and to deal with them unflinchingly.

It is needless, however, to bring witnesses against so inherently foolish a charge as that ascribed to this Philadelphian. Atlanta is known not only by its own people but by the country at large as a city which is truly remarkable for the wholesomeness of its moral atmosphere. Its life has the zest and blitheness of a metropolis but its color and tang are of the kind that surge up from healthful civic blood. We do not know the business or the motive of the person who has voiced this silly slander, but we would advise him to retire into that charitable obscurity which heretofore has shielded him in his asininity.

According to one senator, free lunch at Washington figures in the lobby.

Every indication points to the complete recovery of Charles W. Morse. He won a $5,000 suit.

Next report will be that there are too many blades of grass where only one or two grew before.

The Grand Jury's Good Work.

The Grand Jury is to be commended for its prompt and diligent investigation of the recent charges made by and against the Atlanta detective department. Its purpose in entering upon this inquiry was solely that of laying bare the truth in justice to public interests and to the community's good name. If police authorities were guilty of graft or collusion with vice, then all the facts in the case should be brought to light and vigorous measures of reform pursued. If individual citizens were guilty of illegal practices or of efforts to destroy official usefulness, in that event also the facts should be established and the wrongdoers called to account. It was in this spirit that the Grand Jury approached its task and its conclusions, whatever they may be, will be accepted in full faith by the public.

The charges and countercharges that have been made were apparently the outcome of personal impulse rather than the evidence of evils that really exist. The detective department seems to have done its best and as well, indeed, as any agency could have done in its campaign against vice; and, on the other hand, the private citizens concerned in these charges do not appear to have been actuated by motives contrary to the city's welfare.

But since serious accusations were made that involved the city's fair repute as well as individuals, it was imperative that the Grand Jury go thoroughly into all the charges; and the fact that it has done so lifts from this community a cloud of suspicion and reproach that otherwise might have rested with blighting effect.

Decatur's New Mail Service.

The decision of the postoffice department to inaugurate a free mail delivery system in Decatur is a well merited recognition of the pro and importance of that interesting town. For years past Decatur has been steadily growing in business, in population and in all those resources which make a community good to live in. It is eminently entitled to the increased postal service which Senator Smith and Congressman Howard have been endeavoring to secure and which, it is now announced, will soon be put into operation.

These added facilities will come opportunely. Decatur is now rushing to completion a handsome new school building. Within recent seasons it has laid many miles of pavement, has developed new commercial and industrial enterprises, built many houses and in divers other ways has shown the per*manency of its* prog ess. It not only reflects the Atlanta spirit but is also an aid to Atlanta's own growth.

A man is beginning to be old when he prides himself on his conservatism.

Now is the time for all good moonshiners to come to the aid of their summer crops.

If we don't have too much rain or any other se*rious difficulties crops* will be good. Take this from an expert.

When the Sleeper Wakes

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

Most of our life we are asleep, not only when we are unconscious in our beds, but also when we are walking about.

Plato's idea was that the best of what we think in this life consists in a few things We remember from a previous existence; and Wordsworth said that "our birth is but a sleep and a forgetting."

Sometimes there comes to us a sharp consciousness of the unreality of our existence. The sense of its dream stuff invades us. We and all men and women seem somnambulists.

Only in our dreams we have the feeling of being awake. As De Musset:

"Ah! if the revery were possible forever,
And if the sleep-walker groping with held-out hands
Did not find Nature hard, always inflexible,
Striking his forehead, cruel as a pillar of brass."

The daily round captures us. We become benumbed by the humdrum. We can do nothing with*out system,* and system dulls us. So we sink into a kind of dim dream life, in which we rise, eat, go to business, to amusement, to bed.

This outward routine stains our inward thought. We feel as if we were a little spiritual tooth in the immense cog wheel of the universe. Life loses its wonder. We are surprised at night, as in dreams.

Then come those things destiny has set for our wakening; sharp spines of pain, thunder crashes of tragedy, lightning darts of disaster; or perhaps the comic, for sometimes a smile or gibe can "stab us wide awake" better than the surgical blade of sorrow.

Sometimes the alarm clock of the soul is but a mood, a "moment of mental splendor," a natural cloud*lifting of the spirit. This spirit illumination we can* once and again trace to a physical cause, to the stomach or liver or the sex feeling, by that strange wiring together of body and soul. Another time it will be due apparently to a friend, an event, or some other exteriority. Or it may occur for no discernible cause.

But, however the waking may take place, it is an hour when, to use the language of John Masefield, "we have suggestions of something bigger than ourselves, suggestions of reality, beauty and order, apprehensions of something stable, behind the flowing and ebbing of life, and apprehensions of something divine, some quality of mind or soul outside us, more real than we."

The woman in society has one of these moments, a shattering vision of what her life might mean if it were real. The woman over her washtub stops, looks up —a thought has whipped her tired mind awake; it is but a passing glimpse, and life descends again into the suds. The business man leaves the papers on his desk and looks far away; his soul rises a moment into what life might be, as a flying fish leaps a gleaming flash into the air.

Death is the supreme awakener. Then the usual and crowding affairs of existence, that seemed so weighty, dissolve into their true nothingness, and the great realities rise like moons upon the soul.

The dream is over. When the body goes to its last bed the soul gets up.

The Ragtime Muse

NATURAL APTITUDE.

At times in prisons of this land
There have been men confined
Who lightly took their pens in hand
To thrill the public mind;
These fellows made, you'll understand,
Some verses which they signed.

They sang of love or sang of hate,
Or sang of joys to be,
Or sang of sorrow's leaden freight,
Or sang of storms at sea;
But all alike, as sure as fate,
Sang that they might be free.

Now, of the states which held them all,
The governors, no doubt,
Listened to mercy's tender call
Above each poet's shout;
And so, past gate and prison wall,
The singers were let out.

Perhaps you wonder why, and then
At rhymers take your fling—
"By putting them in prison men
To poets you may bring."
But if you do, I ask again,
"Why shouldn't jail-birds sing?"

"And where?" asked the visitor, impressed with the child's earnestness.

"On the lion," answered the boy.—Harper's Weekly.

THE DIARY OF OUR OWN SAMUEL PEPYS.

June 2.—At my office all the morning, engazed in petty business and thence to the ballpark where I did see Mr. Chance's team to lose 2 games and it all taking until near 7 o'clock, yet it did keep me in the open air, and watching good players could do no more. Sate with Mistress Margery and we had much badinage to and fro, for she hath a quicker wit than any of these scrivening-men. So home and had dinner, cooked by Martha our new kitchen-girl, and very well, too, me thought, albeit they do all seem excellent at the outset. Came Jack Wheeler the writer in the evening and did throw dice with me for a box of tobacco-cigarres, which I won, and was glad of it. Then reading Stephen Leacock's "Sunshine Sketches" and my only regret that or not having read them before, for I deem them the best piece I have read this year, and full of the drolliest humourousness, and so to-bed.

3.—Great talk of whether Mr. Waldo the chief constable should be removed, some saying yea, and others, among them the Lord Mayor Gaynor, nay. To my mind he hath done no great work. To the tennis-court with A. Guiterman the poet and met there C. Beebe and W. Wolff and had some settos and played with fair skill. Too I met Mistress Ailsie MacAdams and played with her, and she did indifferent well. In the evening came Mistress Alma, looking very fine after being away in the country, but I had little discourse with her, but did essay to make some verses, which I did, but so ineptly that I did destroy them. Came news to-day of a performance of "Iolanthe" to be given on Thursday afternoon and the moneys are to go for a fund for the publick library for a collection of Gilbert-and-Sullivanians, and a worthy cause, mesecms, too. Finished with "Sunshine Sketches" this night, and deem them as good as Mr. Will White's "In Our Town."

While Mr. Harry G. Smith, ex-29118 Auburn Prison, did not apply to Charles W. Morse, Atlanta, 12, for a job, those interested will be glad to know that he now has a position. And, curiously, in the steamship business, too.

Why Illustrators Drive Recklessly.

"Do you have to read the stories, or what?"

"Does the editor pick out the places for you to illustrate, or does the author do that?"

"Where on earth do you get your types?"

"What does your wife do when you have these models there?"

"I have a cousin in Cincinnati who does this sort of thing; perhaps you've heard of her—Sadie Sussmasser?"

*"When will this picture be finished? O, it is fin*ished. O, I didn't realize that!"

"Won't you make me a cartoon of myself?"

"I wish you'd give me one of your sketches—any little thing lying around the studio that you don't care for."

"I suppose you're very fond of drawing?"

"Do the *models pose together in that kissing pic*ture, or how do you do that?"

"Don't you ever feel that you'd like to do something serious some time? You know what I mean."

"I'll keep this little sketch. Some day, you know, it will be worth a lot of money. O, you know what I mean."

Vision of Sir Launfal.

THE DREAM.

When I read over Vision of Sir Launfal I remined myself in a dream which I dreamed two weeks ago.

Two weeks ago I dreamed a dream which is almost the same as the Vision of Sir Launfal. I dreamed that I am in Russia with my parents, and that I am working with my father in his business. And at the same time I went to some place for my father and on the way I met a cousin of mine which come back from U. S. about a week before I met him. I walked with for two or three hours and he told all about U. S. He told the advantages and the disadvantages of the U. S.

After I depart from him I became anxious to U. S., and I started in with my father he should give the amount which I need for the expense. But as I was dreaming that I have a debat with my about going to U. S. I awoke myself and I looked around and saw that I am in New York and not in Russia. Than I understood that it was a dream.

It is hard to keep an opinion. We get one fixed, as we think, on Waldo and the police situation and then we meet somebody who ought to know who says: "You know what's behind it, don't you? We don't, ever, so he tells us, and, credulous, we change our view. We think the I. W. W. are dead wrong; comes some one, utterly sincere and honest and incorruptible, and tells us why they are right—convinces us they are right. It all gives one a feeling of appalling ignorance and makes one feel like falling back on the man-eating shark, the mosquito, parsnips and other safe topics to attack.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

IV—UNIFORMITY.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Uniformity is the one thing most desirable in the minds of those who are considering the defects of the system or lack of system regarding the weights and measures in use in the different states. In the reformation of weights and measures the recognition of a national standard must be enforced, although since all the states for the past century have been practically allowed to fix their own standards, there are many difficulties connected with the establishment of absolute uniformity. At the time of the Revolutionary war, the weights and measures in use in the custom houses of the different colonies were chiefly of English origin, but even at that period there was considerable difference between them.

In recognition of this fact the articles of confederation preceding the constitution, contained the chapter: "The United States in congress assembled shall also have the sole and exclusive right and power of regulating the alloy and value of coin struck by their own authority or by that of the respective states and of fix*ing the standards* of weights and measures throughout the country." This power was conferred upon congress in the constitution of the United States in Article I, Section 8, which gives congress the power "to coin money, regulate the value thereof and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures." Washington again called attention to the subject in his first annual message to congress in January, 1790, stating that "Uniformity in currency, weights and measures in the United States is an object of great importance and will, I am persuaded, be duly attended to." Thomas Jefferson, then secretary of state, was requested by congress to prepare and report to the house a proper plan for establishing uniformity in weights and measures.

Jefferson proposed two plans. The first was practically to "define and ren*der* uniform and stable the existing system, to reduce the dry and liquid measure to corresponding capacities by establishing a single gallon of 270 cubic inches and a bushel of eight gallons or 2,160 cubic inches." The second plan was "to reduce every branch of measurement to the same decimal ratio already established for coin, and thus bring the calculations of the principal affairs of life within the arithmetic of every man who can multiply and divide plain numbers." The second plan, as will be noted, is exquivalent to the metric system which since then has been adopted so generally throughout Europe.

Congress did not take any decisive action upon the subject for some time, and Washington again referred to the matter in his third annual message. One committee had reported favorably upon the decimal system proposed in Jefferson's second plan, but it was not until the second session of the fifth congress that the first act was passed in regard to weights and measures. This act provided that the surveyor of each port in the United States should "from time to time and particularly upon the first Monday in January and July in each year examine and try the weights, measures and other instruments used in ascertaining the duties on imports with standards to be provided by each collector at public expense for that purpose; and when disagreements and errors are discovered he shall report the same to the collector and obey and execute such directions as he may receive for the correction thereof, agreeably to the standards aforesaid."

* * *

The first law regarding weights and measures could not be put into operation for more than thirty-five years because no standards had been adopted by legislation by which the measures in use could be gauged. After the War of 1812 the question of uniformity of weights again came up but although a number of bills were proposed, no definite action was taken. In the meantime considerable change in the system of weights and measurements were taking place both in France and in England. The French law, adopting the metric system as compulsory, was repealed so that system was in use side by side with many old weights and measures, and endless confusion resulted. In England the wine gallon of 231 cubic inches and the ale gallon of 282 cubic inches were both in use until 1824, when the new imperial gallon containing ten pounds of water and a capacity of 277 1-4 cubic inches was adopted, together with a measurement of eight gallons to one bushel.

Neither of these measures were in use in this country. The United States could not adopt the system of either France or England without causing radical changes in the systems of weights and measures already in use, and there was no indication that either the metric system or the English measures would be permanent. During all the years in which congress was considering the matter commerce had been growing in the newly established nation and, with *no na*tional standard to govern them, most of the states had independently of each other adopted standards of their own. While most of these were based upon the old English standards, even those of the same supposed denomination differed widely, and there was continual confusion which has not been overcome to the present day.

Congress took the stand that, while confusion in commercial weights and measures might be ignored for a time, no uncertainty of coinage could be permitted, so on May 13, 1828, a troy pound was adopted as the standard of coinage, in the act authorizing the continuance of the mint in Philadelphia. The troy pound adopted was procured from Great Britain by Albert Gallatin, minister of the United States, at London, and delivered by special messenger to the director of the mint in Philadelphia. The weight was of brass, an exact copy of the imperial troy pound of England. It was enclosed in a sealed casket and kept under seal until John Quincy Adams, president of the United States, could visit Philadelphia and with some ceremony verify the seal of Mr. Gallatin.

Two years later the senate passed a bill directing a comparison to be made of the weights and measures in use at the principal custom houses. As was expected, discrepancies were found, although the average value agreed reasonably well with the English weights and measures used at the time of the American Revolution. The treasury department took steps to correct this evil without waiting for authority from congress by having constructed the necessary weights and measures for the customs service. The divergences in weights and measures was directly in opposition to the constitution which required that all duties, imports and excises should be uniform throughout the country.

* * *

The treasury department could not construct weights and measures until it had decided upon certain units and the amount which these units were to represent. After much consideration the following were adopted: the yard of 36 inches, the avoirdupois pound of 7,000 grains, the gallon of 231 cubic inches, and the bushel of 2,150.42 cubic inches. The standard yard was the thirty-six inches comprised between the twenty-seventh and sixty-third inches of a brass bar prepared for the coast survey in London. This bar had been brought to the United States in 1913. The avoirdupois pound was derived from the troy pound of the mint. The avoirdupois pound equals 1.215 pounds troy which is the relative equivalent between troy and avoirdupois weight in England. The units of measures represent the wine gallon of 231 cubic inches and Winchester bushel because they seem to correspond more closely with the average capacity measures already in use in the United States. These weights and measures were adopted by congress on June 14, 1836, and the secretary of the treasury was directed to furnish a uniform set of the weights and measures to the governor of each state in the union.

W. R. DALEY CALLS FOR SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

Pres[illegible]t of Board of Educa-tio[illegible]ade Strong Speech at [illegible]aduating Exercises

Decl[illegible]s that each of the four local high s[illegible] buildings is "a disgrace" to the city of Atlanta, Walter R. Daley, president of the board of education, spoke at the graduating exercises of the Girls' High school Thursday night at the Grand opera house.

A bond [illegible]ue of a special school tax, said he, is the only solution of the present [illegible]ool problem.

"The English Commercial High school," he said, "is the orphan of the public [illegible]hool system. It has the land and no[illegible]ome. It is located at present in an [illegible] residence below the level of the W[illegible]ington street viaduct. It is a disgr[illegible]e to the city.

"The Girls' High school building is old an[illegible] inadequate. Its corridors are dark a[illegible]d pitch. Fourteen furnaces and four s[illegible]es are used in an attempt to heat it [illegible]nd they don't do it. It would be the [illegible]st thing that ever happened in Atl[illegible] if the G. H. S. building were d[illegible]olished some night.

"Four new high school buildings are needed [illegible] Atlanta, for the Boys' High school [illegible]uilding and the Technological High s[illegible]ool building are no better than t[illegible] others. We can't blame the city co[illegible]cil for not providing the money [illegible]asked. They haven't got it. The ci[illegible] has plenty of credit, and ought [illegible]use it. A bond issue especially [illegible] the public schools is the only s[illegible]olution."

A t[illegible]endous crowd witnessed the gradua[illegible]t exercises. Long before 8:15 o'clock [illegible]e hour set for the opening chorus, [illegible]very seat from pit to "peanut" had be[illegible] sold, and the people were hanked [illegible] three rows behind the last rail do[illegible]stairs.

In t[illegible]udience were the friends and families [illegible]f the 137 girl graduates and many [illegible]bers of the public schools. The boxes were occupied mainly by the mayor, the members of the city council and the members of the board of education.

A storm of applause swept the house when the curtain rose and revealed the stage packed with pretty girls, each clad in a simple dress of white, all with enormous bouquets of pink roses in their arms.

Three songs were given by the class, the last, "The Beautiful Blue Danube," receiving the longest and loudest ovation accorded any number on the program. Miss Gertrude Gates, of the Girls' High school, delivered the greeting, and two essays were read, one on "Vocational Schools," by Miss Blanche Foster of the English Commercial High school, and the other on "Ethical Values at the High School," by Miss Floy Edwards, of the Girls' High school.

Mr. Daley was introduced by Superintendent [illegible]. M. Slaton. In groups of seven the girls came forward to receive their diplomas from the hands of the president of the board.

Mr. Daley announced that the Vivian Marsh cup, probably the most eagerly coveted honor at G. H. S., had been awarded the year to Miss Jeannette Victor. Miss Victor is also the winner of the Agne Scott scholarship for 1914.

The exercises ended with a grand march by the class, in which two squads of girls, one carrying long ropes of green and pink and, the other with beautiful wreaths of the same color, performed prettily the evolutions of the Delsarte drill.

EMORY ALUMNI ASKS FOR INTERCOLLEGE GAMES

Lauren Foreman Selected to Address Trustees on Intercollegiate Sports at Emory

Lauren Foreman, of Atlanta, has been selected by the alumni of Emory college to present their petition to the board of trustees that intercollegiate athletics be permitted at Emory college.

Mr. Foreman, with many of the alumni of that college, is enthusiastic for intercollegiate sports at Emory, and he will deliver an address on the subject when he presents the petition to the board of trustees at their annual meeting next Tuesday in Oxford, Ga.

An enthusiastic meeting of the alumni was held Thursday night in the University club, and Mr. Foreman was chosen unanimously to deliver the petition.

The meeting Thursday night was presided over by J. E. McRee, and Thomas Connally acted as secretary. From replies to letters sent out over the state, it appears that nine out of ten of the alumni of Emory are in favor of intercollegiate sports.

A large delegation of alumni will escort Mr. Foreman to Oxford next week.

JOINT AWARD IS MADE IN LAW SCHOOL DEBATE

Judges and Instructors Find Three Students Qualified for First Prize

Judges of the declamation contest recently held by students of Atlanta Law school have been unable to render a decision in favor of any one speaker. By unanimous consent Harry B. Terrell, Aden Dowda and George Northen have been declared joint winners of the gold medal.

The judges, John S. Candler, M. L. Brittain and Judge J. T. Pendleton, sought the advice of Mrs. William Clare Spiker, instructor of oratory at the school, but she, too, thought that no one of the three contestants could be given preference over the others.

Members of the Atlanta Bar association will attend the graduating exercises of the school at the Grand theater on Saturday night to hear the address to be delivered by Judge W. A. Covington, of Moultrie.

The annual banquet of the graduating class of the school will be held a week from Saturday night at the University club. The addresses will be made by Hamilton Douglas, dean of the school; George Westmoreland, of the faculty, and George Osborne, W. O. Cheney and Leonard Grossman, student. Basil Stockbridge will act as toastmaster.

Old Bodyguards of Confederates Ask For State Aid Now

One of the most unique petitions ever presented to an official of Georgia was signed by twenty-eight old ante-bellum negroes who served as suttlers and body guards for their master in the Civil war, presented to the state commissioner of pensions Thursday afternoon.

The petition is an appeal for help. It is addressed to the "Confederate States of America," and details the services that the signers rendered to their masters during the war.

There is no provision made for these old retainers under the statutes. It may be that the next legislature will take the matter up and find means for caring for them.

LEGAL BATTLE WILL BE WAGED OVER DODD WILL

A prolonged battle over the legality of the will of the late Mrs. Barbara Dodd will be begun in the Fulton court next Tuesday when hearing on the caveat filed by the contesting heirs is taken upon by Ordinary Wilkinson. Mrs. Dodd's will, which bequeathed the bulk of her estate, estimated at $120,000, to Mercer university, left her relatives practically nothing.

C. P. Goree, the attorney who drew the will, filed a demurrer to the contesting petition yesterday and as a result a long fight is expected. The contest of the relatives is based upon the contention that Mrs. Dodd was possessed of monomania when she made the will. Charles E. Currier's executor of the estate, will be represented by Rosser & Brandon, and also by King, Spalding & Underwood.

MEN AND RELIGION BULLETIN No. 58

Count the Cost

"Judas, betrayest
Thou the Son of Man
With a Kiss?"

When you are tempted to fight against the good—

And to this, you are about to add hypocritical treachery, pretending love for that which you are trying to destroy—

Remember Judas kissing the Savior.

And do it not.

They crucified Christ, but they scorned Judas, who lost his soul.

He failed to count the cost.

Make not the same mistake.

You are warned when Jesus says:

"Whosoever doth not bear his own cross and come after Me, cannot be my disciple.

"For which of you, desiring to build a tower, doth not first sit down and count the cost, whether he have wherewith to complete it?

"Lest haply, when he hath laid a foundation, and is not able to finish, all that behold begin to mock him, saying:

"THIS MAN BEGAN TO BUILD AND WAS NOT ABLE TO FINISH."

Count the cost.

And answer:—

"What is a man profited, if he gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?"

When the liquor dealers and the landlords of the houses which were in our midst stand before the judgment bar of God, that seven hundred thousand dollars of trade, that sixty thousand dollars of rent squeezed annually from the souls of fallen women will scarcely compensate those liquor dealers and landlords for the ruin of the numberless girls necessary to carry on the infamous traffic.

All of the foul gold of years will not outweigh those thirteen little girls under ten years of age suffering in Grady Hospital from hideous infection.

Neither will it balance the broken hearts of mothers of babies blinded at birth.

Nor will it offset the deadly weight of the sorrow and suffering of the mothers and fathers of these girls betrayed.

Count the cost.

AND YOU WILL JOIN THE FIGHT AGAINST THE SOCIAL EVIL.

It has only begun in Atlanta.

And every imaginable falsehood will be told by servants of Satan to hinder it.

Therefore, when you hear any statement, consider carefully its source.

When a man prating of morality advocates licensed immorality and seeks to besmear with slime police officials who are doing and who have done their duty, EXAMINE THE MAN'S PAST, his friends and connections.

Ask:—Is he connected directly or indirectly with the liquor traffic? Has he been so connected in the past?

Has he ever been employed—Is he now employed by any one or more of those charged with violating the laws against prostitution.

And, when one claims that vice has been scattered but not lessened in Atlanta, make the same inquiries and refer him to this Committee; for he is either in error, or lying, as can be easily shown.

Conditions at the time of Chief Beavers' order closing the houses were accurately known to this Committee.

And the work of the Chief and his men—the co-operation of almost all of our public officials, City and County, have far exceeded the hopes of this Committee and demonstrated that ATLANTA NEEDS NO OUTSIDE HELP IN SOLVING HER PROBLEMS.

But remember, this is a work of years and generations, not of months and days.

Burglary, arson and murder—which were never fostered by the lie of segregation—are still here.

But in Atlanta the pimp, the panderer and those who would live or profit by the shame of women, are losing hope.

Therefore, when their friends, or their employees, protest against "the frightful immorality" of our city and "the corruption" of the police and detective force which has put them out of business, those who know smile in pity.

FOR PROTECTED VICE IS DEAD.

Some people believe that a snake with a broken back will not die until sunset.

Notwithstanding its twisting and writhing, intelligent men know that the creature is dead when its spinal cord has been snapped.

The writhing and twisting are spasmodic; they will grow less and less.

Protected vice is dead. Months ago its spinal cord was broken by our Police Force.

Count the cost. You would not revive, if you could, your city's shame.

Remember Judas and his kiss.

Market in New York Closed 3 Points Off to 20 Points Up From Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 6.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 1 to 8 points on fair to good spot sales, earlier English spot sales and a firmer Liverpool market in July and August crop months made new high ground for the movement. There was heavy realizing at the advance which the market reacted 4 to 5 points. There was some southern selling of July which was rumored to be covering a grade cotton in the south and which helped to check the advance in that quarter.

Indications that Liverpool straddle longs were selling July and realizing by recent local and Liverpool prices off late in the session. The market was unsettled with prices at noon 1 point lower to 4 points higher.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, June 6.—Cotton futures opened steady at an advance of 4 to 8 points on active months and holding company covering the July position, July was the strongest month on the boards in the early trading and sold after the first call at 12 points over other months stood 5 to 6 points up. The weather map was called favorable to most of the all crop accounts were bearish, but they stimulated little selling. The forecast of unsettled and showery weather for most of the entire cotton region, however, brought out a moderate volume of buying orders and the trade in the first half hour of business prices were only 2 to 5 points over yesterday's close.

The market had a nervous and unsettled tone after the middle of the morning and was under some pressure to realize, but in the end showed their profits. The strength of the July position, however, held the entire list up fairly well and at the lowest prices were three points up to one point above, compared with yesterday's final figures. At noon the market was dull at a net loss of one to seven points. Reports of rains here and there in the belt counteracted the small amount of short selling, which was well absorbed.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, June 6.—Liverpool disappointing with old crops show five points lower than due, new crops one to two lower. Spots only one higher although sales of 13,000 bales, which would indicate that the Liverpool market is unfavorable political and financial outlook and good crop prospects are forcing the liquidation of stocks.

Much disappointment is felt here that the bank of England not reducing its rate. London accounts for it by the fear of war among the Allies in the Balkans and says there is little doubt in the threat that the peace conference will break up without result. The weather continues very favorable, mostly cloudy and unseasonably warm. Indications are for unsettled weather and showers over entire belt with good prospects for more general rains and cooler in the western and central belt over Sunday.

New York says that the small stock and intimation by bull operators of reducing it further accounts for the continued heavy short covering and advance. There is no doubt that manipulative operations in July brought about the rally. Predictions of large insect damage are being made to influence shorts in new crops, but so far facts are that the crop is growing very well with continued favorable weather and reducing the original lateness. If it ever existed. First trades here were at an advance of eight points on old crops, three on the new. The undertone is poor and the tendency lower, but the push in July in New York rules the

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says: Near prophets blinked at the blackness of which, for the first "eleventh" time in recent weeks, have put the oracles to rout. Clark's guess at 12,000,000 for the season was promised a much lower market and asserted the talent if they would only wait a season while they could buy at a distinctly cheaper cotton looking for a buyer. Each time excuses and explanations have had to be made. For a time the weather was against the bear and reports of enforced replanting acted as a barrier to the consummation of thirtish hope. Then Liverpool decided to acquire possession of about all of July contracts, giving what was generally taken to assume tangible form in the Balkans. Now, however, the weather is just about as near ideal as cotton weather can be, and private crop reports are just about as favorable as big crop people could wish for. It is quite true the government crop reporter does not share the enthusiasm of the private reports, however, but what of that? Do not the traveling experts tell us all is well, and is not that the essential thing to say? Nevertheless, yesterday's market developments look as if the bears had got a deflated rubber ball catching its breath again. Bears explained the market's strength as due to bull manipulation by the usual general cause and said persistent trade buying had caught speculative short sales in a strong position.

Dallas wires: Texas and Oklahoma crop conditions favorable. Local rains reported over southwest Texas, they need rain and a general rain soon will be beneficial to both states.

The Journal of Commerce says yesterday's advance to a bear stampede promoted partly by the July delivery and partly by a bull following. Scale buying orders reflecting a nervousness among shorts growing out of the bullish position in July. The certificated stock here is 66,000 bales and Galveston has the freight room for 40 per cent of this has been engaged. Aside from this there is a strong feeling that the new crop is late, even from the best sections. The Journal of Commerce expressed fear of an unusual large insect damage this season. It is making one heaviness on part of bears, and some of the trade are looking for weeks to express their inclination to change to the bull side until he can find a favorable opportunity to bear the market on. Financial and trade conditions are favorable as an argument against the market by some but from the standpoint which must come later. Any concerted effort to short covering would result in considerable advance though there is no evidence of that just now.

New Orleans—Map favorable, part cloudy with local thunder showers; cooler in north portion.

Oklahoma—Unsettled showers tonight or Saturday; cooler tonight.

East Texas—Tonight and Saturday unsettled, showers in north portion tonight or Saturday; light southerly winds on the coast.

West Texas—Tonight and Saturday unsettled showers in north portion tonight or Saturday; cooler tonight in north portion.

Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina—Florida and Alabama—Local showers tonight or Saturday.

Kentucky—Local thunderstorms tonight or Saturday; cooler.

Tennessee—Local thunder showers tonight or Saturday; cooler Saturday.

Mississippi—Scattered showers tonight or Saturday.

11 a. m. bids in New York were as follows: January, 11.11; July, 11.75; August, 111.60; October, 11.19.

9 a. m., bids in New Orleans were: January, 11.32; July, 12.11; August, 11.72; October, 11.30.

Gwathmey, Jones & Co.: Yesterday's other brokers representing spot interests, bought July. Selling scattered and seemed to come from commission houses. Strength of summer positions causing some buying among shorts and higher prices expected.—Anderson.

Cone continues principal buyer of July, selling scattered, Price interests are supposed to be buying July and selling the new crop.

Liverpool, steady; American forwarded, 63,376; total 72,475; American decrease, 44,240.

Memphis—Advancing of over night buying orders in July gave higher opening and buying of summer positions by Liverpool straddlers has kept market active and firm. Crops respond poorly. Crop news is most excellent and weather almost perfect for cotton. Will not rely on values when this July squeeze is over.—Miller & Cotter.

STOCK GOSSIP

How Jones summary:

Southern Pacific applied to California railway commission to issue certificates for $20,000,000 two-year 5 per cent collateral trust notes for expansion and improvements. Circuit court of appeals will hear on Thursday a suit to dissolve the alleged merger of Southern Pacific stock. Senator Hitchcock introduced resolution to investigate tobacco trust.

Bonds were irregular.

Stocks were heavy; subscribed $9,430,000. Temple Iron company forecasts record year. Quick assets ratio declined .40; 12 industrials declined .90.

While I do not look for any bull market, I believe we should see a moderate recovery in prices before we see them go much lower. The short interest is not large and any sign of large foreign buying would bring about a sharp advance.—Lutter.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Chicago Inter-Ocean says sentiment in wheat was mixed last night. The bears, while not any too confident of being able to break prices any, were looking for lower prices on the belief that there will be more than an average crop of winter wheat and spring wheat. The bulls believe that the constant reiteration of drought claims for Kansas and Oklahoma crops are sufficient confirmation of reports that the crop estimates have been greatly overdone, and warrant the maintenance of the present level. Some of the commission houses who have been waiting for a break on the increase in receipts say that it does not look as if a decline is likely until after the movement has passed into cash corn and a large accumulation of stocks. Some speculators are inclined to the slowness of the eastern demand and Canadian oats is held at a wide premium over 8 to be sent to the domestic product. It is said that some of the oats recently shipped to eastern lake ports are spoiled. Only one June corn sale, 5,000 bu, was made winter wheat condition 97 vs. 93 in May, and 45 last year.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. say: Wheat: We are closed for a higher market today, believing that for the time being at least the pressure has exerted about all the influence possible.

Corn: Offerings from the country are moderate, market continues to show a very firm undertone and meets with good buying on all little setbacks.

Oats: Cash situation is steady with a fair demand. Country offerings are not oppressive.

Provisions: The future market has shown almost entirely on the volume of trade movement, but the market has had a good demand and is likely to show a steady market, lower.

Show wires from Ellsworth, Kas.: Drove today in Salina, McPherson, Rice and Ellsworth counties, 1,000 cars. Over 500,000 cars are reported cashed as part of the good wheat of the year. In Liberal in August I've seen 60 cars with average of 50 bushels after hot winds last week of May just now becoming evident. Large part of last week's drive poorly fed and out of shot-blade. Early fields still show some promise. Making wide allowance for unexpected, should rains now come, could not place these counties above condition 75 per cent. So far are merely scattered thunder showers. Today's situation is the worst I've seen in 13 years a week ago either by myself or to the government. Indicated cuts will not return seed. Cattle rain last night, general south and west, will help filling what is left with any life at all.

There are rumors of a big movement of wheat for sale around 91 and September at 90¾ by Milwaukee houses. Receipts are reported very freely. We are inclined to think the market ought to set this week. None of the outside markets are as strong as our own with Minneapolis barring precipitately.

Shannon Grain Letter—Seller July wheat.

AD MEN'S SPECIAL TO LEAVE HERE SATURDAY

Atlanta Ad Men Prepare to Storm Baltimore During Convention Week

The Atlanta Ad Men's special to the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, to be held in Baltimore, Md., June 8-13, will leave here Saturday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock. The Atlanta crowd will be joined by delegations from Birmingham, Montgomery and a few others.

Atlanta will play a prominent part in the doings at this big convention, which promises to eclipse any yet held by the advertising men of the country. A large delegation from foreign countries is expected, and every advertising man of prominence in America will be on hand.

Atlanta will be well advertised in every city through which the special passes, and in Baltimore the bunch of Atlanta hustlers will see to it that the Gate City of the South is always in a prominent place.

Atlanta has been given a fine position in the big parade, and two Atlantians, W. F. Parkhurst and L. D. Hicks, have places on the program of speeches.

A member of the Atlanta Ad Men's club has been in Baltimore for several days, acting as an advance guard, and he reports that the accommodations this time are superior to any at any previous convention.

"Atlanta Always Ahead" again will be the slogan of the Atlanta Ad Men.

RECALL OF GA. JUDGES IS SUBJECT FOR DEBATE

Tech Students to Argue Question Friday Night in Y. M. C. A. Auditorium

The recall of judges of the superior and higher courts in Georgia will be the subject for debate among members of the Henry W. Grady Literary society at the Georgia School of Technology Friday evening.

The debate will occur in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium at 8 o'clock, and the general public is invited to attend. The question to be discussed is: "Resolved, That the judges of the state of Georgia should be subject to recall."

The affirmative side will be represented by S. D. Frankel, of Atlanta, a member of the senior class, and P. F. Rayson, of Jesup, Ga., a member of the sophomore class. S. A. Gayle, of Columbus, Ga., of the freshman class, and L. C. Jordan, of Atlanta, of the sophomore class, will uphold the negative.

The judges will be Alex C. King, of the Atlanta bar; Rev. C. W. Daniel, of the First Baptist church and J. S. Fleet, of the Peacock-Fleet school. Prof. W. G. Boogher, of Tech, will preside.

THEATERS

(Criticisms of Atlanta performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater managements.)

FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—Vaudeville and Pictures.

The variety in the program at the Forsyth this week has contributed more to the entertainment of theatergoers than any combination of interesting features offered in many weeks. There is a little bit of everything in the show that makes it worth while.

Lillian Shaw, the singing comedienne, shares honors with each of the acts that make up this particularly interesting show.

Jack Hazzard, the monologuist, The Three Alex in their acrobatic stunts, Wright and Dietrich in a singing number, and the other acts receive an equal measure of applause, and collectively, the show is just the sort that crowds the theater at every performance.

Next week's offering will be headed by a quintet of acrobatic girls, who are tremendously interesting in boxing, wrestling and bag punching.

"The College Girls," with Lillian Cameron, Jimmie Hunter, Frank Christie and Martin Guild, assisted by a pretty chorus, is scoring a decided hit this week at the Bijou. The attendance so far has been fully up to the expectations of the management, and the house records will doubtless be broken during the week. The performance is just the kind that appeals to fun-loving theatergoers; the comedy is clean and wholesome, the musical numbers uptodate and catchy, the costumes are bright, and there is not a dull moment from curtain to curtain.

"Hiram at the Cabaret," another musical comedy tabloid, is scheduled for next week. The company numbers some twenty people, including a big chorus, and the attraction promises to become quite as popular as "The College Girls."

RESOLUTION OF THANKS PASSED BY VETERANS

We, the members of Camp Walker, desire and wish to thank our three great newspapers for the kind words they have often said in our behalf, and we heartily thank the generous and good people of our magnificent city of Atlanta for the liberal contributions they so kindly gave to our worthy solicitor, Major Julius H. Cook, to help defray the expenses of our camp to the annual reunion in Chattanooga, Tenn., for this year; also for helping us to uniform our members in such good style as to make our camp one of the best uniformed camps in the southern states, as well as the banner camp in the south.

Unanimously adopted by the camp.

"THE MOST BEAUTIFUL EYES

Are Those That Look Love Into Your Own Eyes," Says Billie Burke

Some one has asked me what colored eyes I consider the most beautiful.

I really have no choice. In fact, I do not think that the coloring of any woman's eyes has anything to do with beauty.

It is their size, their limpidity, their slope, the way they are set in the head and, above all, it is the mind and spirit behind them.

I have seen eyes that were heaven's own blue in color, but they were not at all beautiful. On the contrary, I have seen eyes that were of nondescript color that were beautiful because they express what the French call "spirite," a word that expresses very much more than our spirit. It embraces enthusiasm, intensity, interest and the indescribable things we call temperament.

It is very probable that the thing which makes the greatest beauty of the eye is the color of the cornea—the so-called white of the eye. The perfect cornea is tinged with a most delicate violet and the eye depends much upon its clearness and tints for its beauty.

"Large, clear, blue eyes usually denote sensibility of character and a capacity or willingness for work.

"Green eyes are rare and are seen more frequently in women than in men. They denote courage, energy and pride. Occasionally they accompany a vengeful and jealous disposition.

"Black eye are difficult to read. They often show a quick disposition and some times are treacherous.

"Blue eyes are said to be the weakest.

"Brown eyes denote a loving, though judicious temperament.

"Wide, open eyes are indicative of rashness. Small eyes are supposed to indicate cunning and side-glancing eyes are always to be distrusted.

"The down-cast eye has in all ages been typical of modesty.

"People of melancholy temperament rarely have clear blue eyes.

"The whites of the eye showing beneath the iris is indicative of nobility of character.

"An eye the upper lid of which passes horizontally across the pupil indicates mental ability. When the upper lid hides more than half the pupil it is an indication of cool deliberation.

"Unsteady eyes, rapidly perking from side to side, frequently indicate an unsettled mind.

"Wide, open, staring eyes in a weak countenance indicate jealousy, bigotry, intolerance and pertinacity, without firmness.

"Eyes that are wide apart are said by physiognomists to be possessed by people of great intelligence and a tenacious memory."

After all is said, eyes that look love into our own are the most beautiful eyes in the world to us, no matter what their color may be.

"I See by The Journal"

Did you ever stop to think of the deep significance of the above oft-repeated statement?

It is estimated that more than 95 per cent of the population of the United States that can read are newspaper readers.

The quotation, or rather the universal repetition, of the same thought signifies to what a tremendous extent the public depends upon the press for its ideas and daily information.

Not so very long ago "I see by THE JOURNAL" referred nearly always to some news happening, but today the expression is just as likely to indicate store news—advertising news: the arrival of some choice merchandise, some change in style, a new idea in apparel, or any one of a hundred interesting and constantly changing bits of information which share the pages of THE JOURNAL.

There is, indeed, much worth while that one may "see by THE JOURNAL" if he will join the thousands who persistently read advertisements in THE JOURNAL.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BED TIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

Oh tell me, you and you and you,
If it, mayhap, you've ever heard
Of all that wond'rous is and great
The greatest is the spoken word?

It's true. It's the truest thing that ever was. If you don't believe it you just ask Jerry Muskrat. He'll tell you it's true, and Jerry knows. You see, it's this way: Words are more than just words. Oh, my, yes! They are little messengers, and once they have been sent out you can't call them back. No, sir, you can't call them back; and sometimes that is a very sad thing, because—well, you see, these little messengers always carry something to some one else, and that something may be anger or hate or fear or untruth, and it is these things which make most of the trouble in this world. Or that something may be love or sympathy or helpfulness or kindness, and it is these things which put an end to most of the troubles in this world.

Just take the case of Jerry Muskrat. There he sat on the new dam which had made the strange pond in the Green Forest, shaking with fear until his teeth chattered as he watched a stranger very, very much bigger than he climb up on the dam. Jerry was afraid, because he had seen that the stranger could swim as well as he could, and as Jerry had no secret burrows there he knew that he couldn't get away from the stranger if he wanted to. Somehow Jerry knew without being told that the stranger had built the dam, and you know Jerry had twice made a hole in the dam to let the water out of the strange pond into the Laughing Brook. Jerry knew right down in his heart that if he had built that dam he would be very, very angry with any one who tried to spoil it, and that is just what he had tried to do. So he sat with chattering teeth, too frightened to even try to run.

"I wish I had let some one else keep watch," said Jerry to himself.

Then the big stranger had spoken. He had said: "Hello, Jerry Muskrat! Don't you know me?" and his voice hadn't sounded the least bit angry. Then he had told Jerry that he was his big cousin, Paddy the Beaver, and he hoped that they would be friends.

Now, everything was just as it had been before—the strange pond, the dam, Jerry himself and the big stranger, the black shadows of the night—and yet somehow everything was different, all because a few pleasant words had been spoken. A great fear had fallen away from Jerry's heart and in its place was a great hope that after all there wasn't to be any trouble. So he replied to Paddy the Beaver as politely as he knew how. Paddy was just as polite and the first thing Jerry knew, instead of being enemies, as Jerry had all along made up his mind would be the case when he found the builder of the dam, here they were becoming the best of friends, all because Paddy the Beaver had said the right thing in the right way.

"But you haven't told me yet what you made those holes in my dam for, Cousin Jerry," said Paddy the Beaver, finally.

Jerry didn't know just what to say. He was so pleased with his big new cousin that he didn't want to hurt his feelings by telling him that he didn't think that dam had any business to be across the Laughing Brook, and at the same time he wanted Paddy to know how he had spoiled the dam on purpose and the Smiling Pool. At last he made up his mind to tell the whole story, ending: listened gravely.

FOR AFTERNOON AND EVENING

Will you wear red this summer? If you refuse to do it you may be in the minority. Even the oldest inhabitant—the most overlooked person in the world—is called upon to verify the modern statement that never was so much red sold in the late spring for summer use.

A few years ago the red hat was introduced in March, and every one thought it would be continued until June, but the spring climate was against it and women turned before April had melted into May.

The shop windows and the dressmaking establishments have been filled with red gowns for six weeks, and in the beginning the majority of women thought it was merely a French caprice inaugurated at the February openings in Paris and merely bravado on the part of dressmakers here to show they had been abroad.

But as the season wore on red gowns continued to be shown, to be bought and to be worn. At present with the summer touching us, the dressmakers are busy turning out red afternoon and evening gowns in thin materials from muslin to Egyptian gauze.

No one shade of red is preferred. There is the quaint bright tone known as Chinese or Japanese red, which is the most wearable in our summer climate because it was invented by a people used to great heat and who know how to dye colors that withstand the glare. The American Beauty red, deep and rich, is the most favored tone for the evening, and also a brighter red, which has undeniable pink tones in it. It is rather trying, and yet the majority of women seem to prefer it. If it is lavishly trimmed with white or tea-tinted lace or net, the effect against the face is very much mitigated, and by using an entire bodice of white tulle draped with lace or seed pearls sewn on net, this vivid shade of light red is possible with any coloring.

RED SATIN DANCE GOWNS.

The popularity of red frocks for formal evening wear is assured from now until October—and further the prophets will not go. The economists add that when red is out of style it can be changed to dark blue or black in a week, and as brilliant dark blue evening gowns have just arrived and are excessively fashionable when trimmed with moonlight jet and blue tulle one has a prospect of changing a red gown into that when ever one becomes tired of the original color.

This is so because of the facility and skill of the dyers in transforming any brilliant tone of red into some other shade more desirable; it always dyes into blue or purple better than anything else, but black can be hoped for with a fair chance.

One must be an artist to manage red. The wrong touch mars the gown. There are those who think that black is a good combination to put with it, merely because a black skirt and a red coat are so effective; but it is doubtful if this same mixing of colors holds good when it is done in piecework and not in large divisions.

The tone called Japanese red does not go well with black, and the deeper tone of American beauty, while it holds itself well with black for the street or for a simple gown, when made up for evening wear should be touched with white. Black should not appear on it, not even black tulle.

As the red gowns of today are made for dances they have draped skirts lifted just above the waistline and finished at the left side with a self-colored rose or a brilliant ornament in rhinestones or white jet or rubies with pearls. The entire bodice is of tulle or lace, and sometimes there is a foundation of pale shell pink chiffon. To join the bodice and skirt together there is a shoulder drapery of red tulle or chiffon, plain or trimmed.

This wirelike effect over the arms and down the back given by a floating transparent fabric is one of the most popular fashions of the day. It was an exclusive idea through the winter and was brought out on the new French gowns in Paris last August, but it has taken some months for it to filter through from the inner ballrooms to the outer restaurants.

AFTERNOON FROCKS OF RED.

Marquisette is dyed in Japanese red in an adirable way and there are many attractive frocks made of it for Europe and the seashore and mountains of America. As an urban gown it is impossible. One of the best models has a draped skirt not too much so—a high waistline over which blouses a full bodice of the material with shoulder yoke feather-stitched with red floss to the fabric below, and long sleeves gathered at a low armhole and at wrists.

There is a rolling collar of white batiste which extends in deep points over the shoulders. The cravat is of white satin and drops in points to the waistline. With this gown is worn a white batiste hat with a gathered crown, a flopping brim and a wreath of green leaves formed here and there into straggling clusters.

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

Are you interested in what we will wear next winter? It seems a far cry from now, but the buyers are already laying plans for filling the shelves of next season and rumors are flying as to what these fabrics will be.

This news interests a woman only in the bearing it may have upon her present clothes and the possibilities of her wardrobe after the summer is over. For instance, Paris has settled upon the fact that all the shades of tan and beige which have been popular this spring will be worn again. This will make happy the heart of the woman who has indulged in this color for her spring gown, as she may have a chance of wearing it during the mild weather of autumn.

Copper, red brown, pale tan, Chinese yellow and new leather were the shades brought out this year and the manufacturers abroad as well as those in this country think that each of them will be repeated in heavy fabrics for winter wear.

The new materials will be as thick, silky and rough as they were last winter. This means that velours de laine, ratine in many weaves and by many names will be worn, making the suit of last January entirely acceptable for next December. Silks will be worn, it is said, throughout the cold weather and will be especially popular through September and October. hTe watered silks will lead the way, especially the largely figured moires and poplin with a blister design on it.

The tendency toward poplin and moire has been very strong during the last two months and they have rivalled bengaline and all the corded silks in quite a remarkable manner. Suit and gowns of these fabrics look very old-fashioned to the woman who is hunting for something excessively new, but she will find out that they are the most desirable of the silks of the day after she has made an investigation.

Next Year a Velvet Year

There is an amazing amount of talk about the recurrence of velvet for next winter in many weaves and colors. There will be a new variety called mousseline plush, so one French writer sends word, and there will be jacquard velvet for skirts to go with jackets of solid colors and also to be used as trimming in the way of collar and cuffs and waistcoats.

The popularity of the latter, meaning waistcoats, is on the increase, and it is believed by those in authority that this little garment will be quite an important accessory to all coats next winter. The waistcoat-blouse is becoming more and more in evidence, although the majority of women do not seem to know just how to make use of it.

In fact there is quite an air of the men's costumes of the Directoire about the coat of the modern woman; there is the long peplum, the wide revers, the collar upstanding at the back, the pleated or ruffled shirt, and now the introduction of an inch wide black ribbon with white selvedges to wear around the neck, on which hangs a watch or lorgnon, all features that instantly suggest the costumes of the men of that epoch.

The black and white ribbon, by the way, is a very smart touch to the new costume. The white line on each side of the black middle part is broad enough to catch the eye at once; there are no ornaments on it and the watch is merely slung to it and then tucked into the belt. The ribbon is a little longer than the line from neck to waist, but not enough to look ungraceful. When one has a jewelled watch it is worn on a short band that hangs to the bust, but as this is not in the Directoire picture, the longer ribbon is preferred with a watch that goes into the folds at the waist line.

Naturally one would not want a jewelled watch hanging in front of or below the waist, for it would swing like a pendulum. This is an interesting costume touch for women to know and it is much more fashionable than a gold chain or a jewelled one—although the heavy gold chain of colonial times which was worn by men is a very smart asset to the tailored costume of today.

Plush Coats Again.

It is also rumored that the cloths made to imitate fur will be in high favor when the cold weather returns; this is not happy news to the many who were very much annoyed of the imitation moleskin of last year; how it was dragged out through the winter months! Cheap looking coats selling for $20 trying to take on the air of the real thing, which would have cost $100! Imitation is all very well in some things, but it should cease at sable, ermine, moleskin, diamonds and pearls.

Other news is that long napped cloths will be widely worn under the general name of sibeline, and they will be made up into mannish and womanish topcoats as well as street suits and one-piece frocks.

By the way, they say that these all in one gowns are to be great rivals of coats and skirts next winter. Women insist that the heavy materials are not enough to wear on the street with the addition of furs, and if furs are as plentiful this year as last year and as well suited in price to the average purse it will need cold weather indeed to make women comfortable.

THE EVENING STORY

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

How "Reddy" Won

Posters setting forth the glories of the coming opera company were to be seen all through the city, and portraits of the leading singers graced displayed in many shop windows. Rosa Bonner, on her way home from work in a department store, stopped at a window.

"Oh, dear, I wish I could go to the opera," she said to her companion, Tilly Smith.

"You don't want much, do you?" was Tilly curt's rejoinder. "Say, do you know how much it costs to go?"

"I know it costs a lot," returned Rosa gloomily. "But that doesn't hinder me from wanting to go, I guess."

"Some of the seats are $5," said Tilly, "and you can't get any seat less than $1.50." Mame Rosa told me. Her brother's a chauffeur at some rich folks on C street. They sent him to buy some seats, and he had to pay $5 apiece for them."

Rosa sighed heavily. She could as well think of flying as to hope to get even one of the cheapest seats. But she longed with all her heart to go.

"Come, let's go on," and Tilly started off. As Rosa followed her reluctantly, with a backward glance toward the window, she saw, coming toward her, a red-haired young man of angular build. She quickened her steps and caught up with Tilly.

"I'm going home this way," she said, breathlessly, as they reached a corner, and was several yards away before the astonished Tilly could reply.

When Rosa reached the three-roomed tenement where she and her mother and her two younger brothers had their home, she announced that she did not want any supper. She was too tired to eat. She was going right to bed.

"Why, Rosa!" exclaimed her mother, "and there's apple dumplin's."

"Say, Rosa, I saw Reddy as I was comin' home. He asked me if I thought you'd be at home tonight. And I told him I guessed you would."

"Well, I just wish you'd mind your business, Mr. Smarty," and Rosa turned angrily toward her brother who had given her this information. "I'm not going to see any one."

"Whew. What's up, sis?"

"For the land's sakes," ejaculated Mrs. Bonner, as Rosa dashed out of the room.

On her way to work the next morning

"Some of the seats are $5 apiece."

the opera posters again attracted the girl's attention and renewed her desire to hear some of the singers. She was passionately fond of music. In the parks during the summer she had heard the bands play many airs from the various operas. "Carmen" was one of her favorites. It was one of the operas to be given by the coming troupe. Oh, if she could only hear it! But it was impossible. She fully realized the futility of the wish.

As she reached her place of employment she saw the red-haired young man of the previous evening about to cross the street toward her. By a quick, skilful movement, she slipped into the shop before he reached the curb.

Tilly Smith was already at her place at the gingham counter when Rosa came to her station at the next counter. "Say, you'd better have gone my way last night. That red-headed fellow came along. He walked part of the way with me," was her greeting.

Rose gazed at him in astonishment.

"I'm sure you are welcome to him," retorted Rosa, tossing her head.

Tilly laughed good-naturedly. "Oh, he doesn't want me. You might do worse than take him, Rosa Bonner."

Rosa's face flushed angrily. Tilly Smith needn't give her any advice. She wasn't worrying herself about having any man, much less John Thompson, with his red hair. The next time she met him she would tell him to stop following her about; but here the appearance of a customer changed the current of her thoughts.

Rosa was delayed a little in leaving the store that evening. She was hurrying along, when the red-haired young man appeared suddenly at her side from the shadow of a doorway.

"Well, I've got you this time. I've sure had a time in catching you. I just missed you last night, and again this morning."

"Oh, did you?" said Rosa, with careless innocence.

"I was coming around last night, but mother took one of her bad headaches, and I had to attend to things."

Rosa began to walk as fast as she could.

"Say, what's your rush, little girl?"

"I want to get home."

"Say, wouldn't you like to go to"—

"I'm going down this way. Good evening," and Rosa dashed across the street at imminent risk of being run over by two automobiles.

"I wish he'd leave me alone," she thought angrily. "He was going to ask me to go to one of the picture shows. I hate the old things. There's only one place I want to go—the opera. And I can't go there. Everything's horrid."

The next day was Sunday. She decided not to go to church. John Thompson might be there. It was at a church social that she had first met him. But in the afternoon she went out for a walk with two girls who lived in the tenement above her. One of them was employed in a large dressmaking establishment. She described some of the beautiful gowns that were made to wear at the coming season of grand opera.

"Why, they're party dresses," commented Rosa.

"Well, that's the way they dress for opera—that is, the rich folks. Oh, it's all splendid. I went once. I didn't care so much for the music. But the fine dressing and all the lights and the scenery! They were sure fine."

"Well, I'd want to go for the music," said Rosa. "I wouldn't care about the dresses."

"But you must dress up when you go."

"Oh, I'll never get to go," returned Rosa with a deep sigh. Her longing to go to the opera was so intense that it seemed to her she could not endure not to go. Her $6 a week did not leave her much by the time she had given half to her mother. She had just bought a new dress and coat with the savings of many weeks. And now she needed shoes and underwear. No, there was no way possible of buying a ticket for the opera.

After supper the boys went out and her mother paid a visit to a sick neighbor. Rosa refused to go to church when some girl friends called for her. John Thompson would be sure to be there, and she didn't want him hanging around her. There was only one thing she wanted and she couldn't have that.

The November night was mild. The girl threw a wrap around her and went down and sat on the steps of the house. She had not sat there long when a tall form appeared before her.

"I met the girls and they told me you were home. Say, what are you sitting out here for? You will catch cold, Rosa."

Rosa stood up. "I was just going in."

"Wait a little bit, for I can't come in. Say, I've bought two tickets for the opera. Tilly Smith told me how crazy you were to go. And they are for good seats, Rosa—not the very best, of course. It's 'Carmen.' I love the music of that. They used to play it at the park in the summer."

Rosa gazed at him in astonishment. The bright moonlight showed her how nice and kind were his gray eyes and how clear his skin. And he did look fine in his Sunday clothes.

"So you be ready on Tuesday evening, Rosa."

Rosa had a sudden sense of compunction and shame. "You are ever so good," she stammered. "I—I just love 'Carmen,' too."

"Say, Rosa, there's lots of things I want to tell you. But I've got to rush now. I've just been promoted to be foreman of our department at the factory. There are some things I must get ready for the morning, and it is Sunday night. I guess I'll see you on the way to work in the morning."

"I—I'll look for you," said Rosa meekly.

"Good night, little girl. Run in the house now before you catch cold."

"I guess, maybe, it doesn't make any difference if her hair is red," thought Rosa happily, as she prepared for bed. "He likes music, too, and that is a whole lot."

AMERICAN FASHIONS

By Lillian Young.

A plasing frock of gray and blue foulard

If you have any doubts as to the continued vogue for foulards, dismiss them. Foulards are still in the running, and will be in demond throughout the season. They are always pretty and cool; in fact, it would be hard to find a more practical silk. The designs vary considerably from the original polka dotted patterns. Among the newest there are many borders and cubist figures, while the range of colors they may be had in is as extensive as ever. The polka dots, however, hold their own, though the very large ones will not be used at all. Stripes and ring dots can be found in pleasing variety and plain, solid colored foulard is in great demand.

The accompanying cut shows a design well suited to the use of foulard, and one that can be quite easily made by the clever woman who does her own sewing.

Gray foulard with a blue ring dotted pattern is used. The blouse has long sleeves set in dropped shoulders under a corded seam. The round neck is finished with a knife plaited ruffling of white chiffon and there is a square tab of Bulgarian embroidery on either side of the front, turned back from the neck like small bretelles.

The fulness of the blouse is draped up under a buttoned down tab of plain blue foulard, which is continued below the belt into the skirt and serves to hold in place the draping of the tunic skirt. There is a girdle of the plain blue foulard in a flat bow in front. The lower part of the skirt is straight and plain and rather narrow, with a curved slash on one side at the feet. The tunic skirt is pouched over the under skirt at a line between the hips and the knees.

Strike Broken

Master of the House—"See here, Mary Ann, where's my dinner?"

Slavey—There ain't goin' to be no dinner, if you please, sir."

"What's that! No dinner?"

"No, sir. The missus came 'ome from 'all this afternoon, an' ate up heverything in th' 'ouse!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Eufaula Social News

EUFAULA.—One of the most brilliant functions of the season was the reception Friday afternoon at the Bulloch home on Broad street, given by Mrs. S. A. Bulloch. Mrs. W. M. Patterson, Mrs. J. W. Drewery and Miss Jennie McRae honoring their cousin, Miss Clara Williams, of Milledgeville, Ga. Little Misses Sarah Bulloch and Elizabeth McRae received the cards. The honoree, Miss Williams, is a beautiful young woman, whose charms have won her many friends on previous visits here and delightful attentions are being paid her.

Mrs. N. W. Roberts entertained Barbour county chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, Tuesday afternoon, celebrating Jefferson Davis' birthday. Each member present responded to roll call with some incident in the life of the president of the Confederacy. Mrs. E. L. Brown read an account of his prison indignities and a poem to him. Miss Eliza Merrill read several tributes to Davis, one a beautiful sketch of his life, written by little Miss Emily Milton. Mrs. C. M. Thompson read a biographical sketch and a poem by the late W. B. Wharton, D. D., written from Montgomery, Ala., 1887, on receipt of a letter from Mr. Davis, inviting him to visit him at Beauvoir, Miss. Mrs. Roberts told of a visit she made to "Cabin John Bridge," and greeted each member present with a rooted piece of love-in-tangle, grown from a spray she gathered from that growing over Jefferson Davis' name on "Cabin John Bridge," the spaces filled with white and red ribbons. Delicious punch was served and the beautiful Roberts home was decorated with Confederate flags, white hydrangeas and red roses.

Thomson Social News

THOMSON.—Mrs. Adamson entertained the Young Matrons' club on Thursday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. W. H. Stone. A color scheme of pink and white was effectively used in decorations and refreshments, pink and white sweet peas being used with lovely effect. Punch was served throughout the afternoon by Miss Mattie Stone. A delicious ice course in pink and white was served after the game. Mrs. Adamson's guests, other than the club members, were Mrs. O. S. Lee, Mrs. A. K. Forney, Mrs. P. A. Bowden, Mrs. G. E. Hamilton.

Mrs. Ira E. Farmer entertained Friday in honor of Miss Lois Ware. The guests were the members of Mrs. Farmer's and Miss Ware's clubs. The tables for the game were placed on the lawn, where punch was served by Miss Bertha Johnson. Top score was made by Miss Mattie McLean, the prize being a foliage plant and green bamboo jardiniere. The guest's prize was a blue silk mattiee with touch of pink. Assisting were Misses Nana Johnson, Mary Thrasher and Madge Mathews.

Miss Bertha Johnson is at home from the Athens Normal for the summer. Miss Nana Johnson, who has the piano and violin classes at Warrenton, is at home for the summer.

Mrs. Adamson returned Thursday from Augusta.

The Baptist Sunday school held a picnic Friday at Bonesville.

Miss Ruby Stone, who has been teaching in Richmond county, is at home with her parents for the summer.

Mrs. Herd Johnson's music class gave a recital Friday evening at the school auditorium. The class is a large one and the pupils all performed their assigned parts well.

Motordrome Will Open Friday Night With Ninety Miles an Hour

MOTORDROME WILL OPEN WITH BUNCH OF EVENTS

Records Are in Danger—Everything Is in Readiness. First Race Set for 8:30. Local Rider Is Entered

FACTS OF MOTORDROME

Opening—Friday night.
Place—Old show grounds.
Time—Doors open 7, races start 8:30.
Cars—Leave Five Points.
Races—Nine races.
Riders—Graves, Swartz, Shields, Lockner, Richards, Luther, Renel, McNeill, Lewis and Glenn.
Officials—A. H. Coolidge, referee; Walter Candler, clerk of course; Gus Blasori, timer; Gus Castle, scorer; Noon Hudson, starter.
Prices—50 and 1 25 cents.
Track—Quarter mile.
Record—38 2-5 seconds per mile.

On the fastest quarter-mile board track in the country a dozen motorcycle racers will Friday night demonstrate to Atlantians how it is possible to clip off ninety miles an hour on a twin cycle motorcycle. The big doings will start at 8:30 o'clock.

The big track has been in the course of construction for some weeks past, and under the careful eye of Jack Prince, the wizard, has progressed nicely, and right now is ideal in every respect. The grade has been thoroughly tested and the riders find it conducive to the greatest speed and many don't hesitate in making the prediction that records will go by the boards.

The fastest lap ever made on a board track was 10 seconds flat. The record for a quarter-mile track is 38 2-5 seconds, and was set by the late Eddie Hasha. The fastest mile ever seen in Atlanta by a motor propelled vehicle was Lewis Strangs' mile in 37 7-10 seconds at the speedway in his 120-horsepower Fiat. The motorcycles being used on the local track are just seven-horsepower, yet they will develop something like ninety miles an hour.

All the starts will be flying, the racers getting away by means of the snatching machine. All racers will be put in motion and will circle track at great speed until they are in line and then the firing of a pistol will set them on their way.

The protection for the spectators is as good as anyone could ask. The track is inclined at a 59 degree angle with 90 degree angle at the top. This will prevent the riders from jumping into the crowd. To protect the crowd in the center of the track there is a high wire incircling the seats. This will keep the riders at least thirty feet from the spectators at all times.

The prices for Friday's races will be 50 cents for the grand stand and 25 cents for the seats inside the track.

WHITNEY AND BUCH CLASH

Star Golfers In Semi-Finals for the 1913 Southern Title

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 6.—Playing semi-finals in the championship flight of the twelfth annual tournament of the Southern Golf association, R. G. Bush and W. N. Whitney, both of New Orleans, started a contest Friday morning which has created more interest than any other in the tourney.

Whitney defeated Louis Jacoby, of Dallas, 3-1, in the third round Thursday, and Bush won from J. P. Edrington, of Memphis, 6-4, thus placing them together for a match today. Whitney is former champion of the south and has played Bush several times in championship divisions, defeating him each time.

Bush's friends say he is playing more consistent golf than at any time in his career and that the contest today will be one of the best ever held in the south.

The other contenders for the championship are G. N. Aldredge, of Dallas, and H. Tutwiler, of Birmingham.

They are matched against each other and began play soon after Bush and Whitney left first tee this morning. Aldredge won from J. C. McAfee, of Macon, 1 up in 20 holes Thursday and Tutwiler defeated C. W. Jones, of Macon, 2-1.

Heavy rains fell during Thursday afternoon and evening and improved the course greatly. The ground had become dry and cracked and players were unable to judge where their balls would stop.

Play in the tournament of the Southern Golf association was fierce all Thursday, the features being the elimination of of Ellis Knowles, of Pensacola, and Louis Jacoby, of Dallas, Tex., from the championship division, by Nelson Whitney, of New Orleans. Both of these matches were followed by immense galleries, in which the sentiment, for a time, was about evenly divided. Friday morning the greatest interest, according to enthusiastic gossip around the club house last night, will be centered in the match between Nelson and Reuben Bush, both of New Orleans. Those two men have battled against each other before in the championship division of the Southern association, and each time Whitney has been returned the winner. Bush has been playing remarkably good golf this year, however, and his adherents are notably increased.

The playing of Jacoby was a distinct disappointment to all watches, but his gameness in a losing fight won him many friends. In any easy shot he lost, and as Whitney followed it with a brilliant shot, Jacoby thanked his opponent conceeding the match with congratulations. The other Dallas player, E. H. Munger, who threatened to be a serious contender, was easily disposed of by Reuben Bush, of New Orleans. Bush easily disposed of Jack Edrington, former title holder, in the afternoon play.

The pairs in the championship semi-finals for Friday are as follows:

Reuben Bush, New Orleans, and Whitney, New Orleans; Aldredge, Dallas, and Tutwiled, Birmingham. The pairs for the association championship are:

C. H. Munger, Dallas, and Selden, Macon; Ulmer, Dallas, and L. W. Read, Augusta.

COBB DROPS IN BATTING GAME, HARD TO KEEP HIGH AVERAGE

Cobb took a long trip down the percentage column Thursday when he failed to get a hit out of four trips to the plate. The game was with Chicago and it looks to an outsider that there must be some goat work somewhere in that Chicago bunch. Cob bdoes not seem to be able to hit the ball that those Chicago pitchers throw at him, and consequently he dropped eighteen points as the result of his failure to hit the ball. His figures are:

Coming Fight To Be Hummer

Transportation has just been wired to Jim Flynn and Jim Savage and by tomorrow the two heavyweights and their camp followers will be on their way to Atlanta to finish training here for the big bout at the auditorium-armory next Friday night.

Reports from the camps of the two men indicate that they will reach Atlantain as good condition as they ever showed up anywhere—and that is very good, for both men are hard trainers. Both men have been in moderately hard bouts lately. Both of them won handily. Flynn showed a world of steam and pepper and appears to be faster and better than ever before in his whole life. Savage trotted out his newly-developed punch his last time out and knocked the cover off his opponent.

Both men are moderately apprehensive of the outcome of the Atlanta scrap. With the heavyweight game opening out to a situation in which both of them have a look-in for the championship, neither man wants anything but a victory. The heavyweight championship today means the biggest sparring money in the world and both men want their slice of it.

A victory for Savage over Flynn here on the night of the 13th would be like discovering a gold mine. It would mean a few years of such prosperity that he would never have to work again. For if Savage can whip Flynn here, there isn't anything in sight to keep him out of the heavyweight title.

It would be pretty soft for "Fireman Jim" if after twelve years of battling he should be able to scrap his way to the title now. He knows it and he is going after Savage strong.

But at that Jim Flynn needs no particular incentive to scrap. He is one of these natural born scrappers. He does it naturally. He has a brave heart and a willing head and he never quit yet, and never can the Queensberry fans anything but a good battle. For a promoter to sign Flynn is exactly like taking out insurance that the battle will be a good one. It can't be anything else, because if Flynn's opponent stands up and scraps Jim is after him all the time, and if he does not, the Fireman is one of the best chasers in the business, and can run down the swiftest foot-racer that ever set shoe in padded ring.

Tennis Stars Meet Today

NEW YORK, June 6.—At the West Side Tennis club, where crowds gathered two years ago to see the Americans defeat the English in the Davis cup preliminaries, American and Australian players met today for the privilege of challenging England, holder of the Davis cup. Arrangements were made at the club to seat a gallery of 5,000 spectators, and indications were that a full gallery would witness the play each of the three days, today, tomorrow and Monday. The weather today was fair and the court in excellent condition.

The American players and their rivals, after several weeks of earnest preparation, were all in fine trim with the exception of A. Booth Jones, the Australian, who has been ill, but who has almost completely recovered and expects to be in form by the time his first match is called.

The matches scheduled for today were between Maurice E. McLaughlin, the Californian, who holds the national championship, and Horace Rice, the hard-hitting lift-hander of the Australian team, in the first round of singles, followed by R. N. Williams, the young Harvard player, against S. M. Doust, the Australian captain.

New Record For 220 Dash

BOSTON, June 6.—Donald B. Lippincott, the University of Pennsylvania sprinter, won the 220-yard dash at the intercollegiate championship meeting in the stadium last Saturday in world's record time, in the opinion of several experts who acted as officials at the meeting.

It became known today that Lippincott was timed by several watches in 21 seconds flat. All the timers did not agree, however, and, after a conference, the time was announced as 21 1-5 seconds, equalling the record.

As a further unofficial test of the value of Lippincott's performance, the stadium straight-away track was measured today on orders from James E. Sullivan, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic union and referee of Saturday's meet. It was found to be one and one-fifth inches over 220 yards.

Jockey Killed In Big Race

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., June 6.—James L. Lynch, a steeplechase jockey, was so seriously hurt during the running of the sixth race at Piping Rock, L. I., Thursday that he died last night. Lynch was riding Exemplar, owned by J. E. Widener. His mount was leading up to the third from the last jump when it struck the barrier and fell. Lynch was thirty years old.

TODAY

NEW ORLEANS, June 6.—After a disastrous invasion of the north end of the circuit the New Orleans team returned home today to open a three-game series with Memphis this afternoon. Kissinger and Newton with Seabough behind the plate will probably be the battery for the visitors. Manager Frank will work either Evans or Swindell.

Both clubs arrived later in the forenoon. The weather is clear and warm.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 6.—The Nashville-Birmingham game scheduled for today has been transferred to Sunday.

MOBILE, Ala., June 6.—After seventeen games on the road, ten of which they were victorious, the Mobile Southern league team opens on the home grounds today for a three-game series with Montgomery. C. Brown is scheduled to pitch for Montgomery, with Donahue behind the bat. Campbell will be on the mound for Mobile, with Schmidt at the receiving end. The game will be called at 3:45.

WELCHONCE WAS STAR; MUSSER HURLED WELL

Right-Hander Was Right, and There Was Nothing to It. Welchonce Hit Homer, Made Fine Throw and a Grand Catch

Harry Welchonce got to going in real baseball fashion in Thursday's close game with the Chattanooga Lookouts, and the result was the seventh straight defeat recorded over the Chattanooga club by the Atlanta outfit. The game was a grand hurling battle between Paul Musser and Forest More, and ended 4 to 1.

Both More and Musser hurled grand ball. The only difference in the work of the two was that Musser was able to hold up under the severe strain he was put to, while More caved. It was not until the seventh inning that the Crackers were able to score, while the only run for the visitors came in the very first stanza, and after that the Lookouts did not even threaten.

Besides the good hurling of Musser and More, there were just three big features to the game, and Welchonce was the hero in each. In the sixth inning Harry grabbed off Elberfeld's short fly to center field and, by a remarkable throw to the plate, was able to double King at the plate. The peg was perfect. In the seventh it was Harry who came to the plate with two runners on the bags, the score tied and two down. He did not do a thing but roll the pill back of the score board for a home run. In the ninth, with two Lookout runners on the bags, he raced in just back of shortstop and made a regular shoestring catch of Williams' Texas leaguer.

Whitey Alperman made a most spectacular stop of Mickey Coyle's hard tap toward second in the third round. The ball almost took Whitey off his feet.

Kid Elberfeld continues to field in his usual good style. His stop of Bisland's grass cutter in the sixth round was a good piece of work.

Musser was in a bit of trouble in the sixth, when King singled, went to second on a sacrifice and to third on an error. There was just one down, and when Coyle walked and Elberfeld came to the bat it looked like another tally, but Paul tightened and there was nothing doing but a double play.

Bisland started the fireworks in the fatal seventh when he led off with a stinging double down the third base line. It was this double, a sacrifice, base on balls, hit batsman, sacrifice fly and home run that shoved home the two runs.

SOUTHPAWS IN BATTLE

Atlanta Will Try to Make It Eight Wins—Price vs. Sommers

The Crackers and the Lookouts will tie up in the second game of the series this afternoon and there will be something doing. But for a little slip yesterday the Atlanta team would have gone down in defeat, but the fatal seventh came around and the Crackers got by with the big end of the score. The game wa sone of the best seen on the local diamond in some time, and there was something doing all of the time.

This afternoon they will go at it again, and that the fur will fly is putting it lightly. Sommers will be the Lookouts' choice for the pitching honors, while Gilbert Price will do the stunt for the locals. Gabby Street will catch for the Chattanooga boys, while Dunn will receive the slants of Price.

"For we shall follow as brave a dream"—W. E. Henley.

Let me see, with hesitancy
Just what dreaming necromancy
I shall pick to suit my fancy—

Shall it be the home club winning as the closing clout is done?
Through a hectic extra inning ere the final score is spun?
Shall it be the blazing glory
Of a pennant copping story?
Where we reach the next world series with the same as good as won?
Where we have a Matty ready,
Or a Johnson, primed and steady,
Or perhaps a Franklin Baker as we need the winning run?

Let me see with meditation,
Just what height of dream elation
I shall give consideration—

Shall it be some titled tourney with the final round to spin
With the only Jerry Travers and myself remaining in?
Where I whirl the cleek and brassie
Like a Vardon or a Massy
And I flip my short approaches like a Travis to a pin!
Where I'm deadly from the tees
Sinking only "twos" and "threes"
And I have him Dormy seven with a two-inch putt to win?

Let me see, with circumspection,
In this dream-embowered section
What is nearest to perfection?

Shall it be around the table with the blue chips on the plush
As my rivals keep on raising till I'm getting shy of cash?
As I hear them lightly saying
'These'll do," and softly praying
I draw one amid a quiver as the room is in a hush—
Where the betting grows appalling
Till at last I hear them calling
And I've nothing there to show them—but a little Royal Flush?

THE RECENT DEAL.

As we understand the situation, having lamped both sides of the comment now, Chance and Callahan both put over a wonder deal. Chance will play better ball for the White Sox than he ever played for the Yanks and Zeider and Borton will play better ball for the Yanks than they ever played for the White Sox.

Both clubs thereby will be strengthened immensely. While all goes to show that a trade was never made in which both clubs didn't get all the best of it.

We recall for example a trade in which Jack Knight was exchanged for Gabby Street. Judging by conflicting comments both sides drew all the edge. It was for both clubs "a great swap" in March. And in May both were back in the minors.

THE 1000 CLUB.

John McGraw, so M. F. H. informs us, and correctly, won his 1,000th victory for New York on Decoration or Memorial Day. This brings up the 1,000 game winners to five names in the forty-three-year history of the major leagues. The others were Anson, of Chicago; Selee, of Boston; Clarke, of Pittsburg, and Mack, of the Athletics. Chance was on his way to the 1,000 mark to full speed until they laid him a stymie in the semblance of the Yanks.

Handling the Cubs Chance would have achieved his 1,000 wins by 1914 at the latest as he had already run down 750 victories or more. Traveling at the rate the Yanks are going he will attain his 1,000 majority in 1932—which is not a matter of opinion but of cold-blooded mathematical precision as outlined by the laws of ample addition.

President Operated On

NEW YORK, June 6.—James E. Gaffney, president of the Boston National league club, who was operated upon six weeks ago and was believed to be on the road to recovery, has been compelled to submit to the surgeon's knife again. The second operation has just been performed successfully, and Gaffney is now able to sit up. His physicians hope that the patient will be able to see his team play when it comes back from the western trip.

RENEL'S MACHINE THREW ALBRIGHT TO HIS DEATH

French Champion Says Blowing of Tires is the Worst of All Dangers

BY GEORGES RENEL.
(The French Champion.)

I could write you about my "closest call" much better in my native French, I think, but probably less would understand it.

I have been riding so many years—twelve in all—that I have had many narrow escapes. I have gone down time and again both in this country and in France. I took two falls in Chicago last year. But I have not been really hurt in many, many years.

My last really serious accident and my closest call came in France ten years ago. I was riding a Peugeot motorcycle. Yes, it was built by the same people who built the racing automobile that has just won your 500-mile race at Indianapolis.

We were riding at Marseilles on a kilometer dirt track. There were ten men in the race. We were going our very best, which was pretty good when, presto! the man in front blew a tire and went down in a heap.

I wish I could tell you how close the call was, but I don't know what happened. I was in the pack, just behind the leader. I have forgotten even his name. I saw him go and the next second we all of us went, whirling and tumbling along the ground. Five went down in all. Whether I was second or last I cannot tell. Nobody ever knew just what happened.

When I finally was still there we lay, five of us, all sprawled over the track, with machines wrecked all over the ground.

I didn't get up and by and by they picked me up and carried me to a hospital. The pain was terrible, but I could not tell where it was the worst. The doctors came, looked me over and told me my hip was broken.

All the others were hurt, too, but none fatally. I don't know yet how it happened that I escaped.

The worst danger in riding is from tires. When they blow, especially if the front one, you may as well look out for a fall. What I fear worst is a rim-cut tire. There is especial danger when you ride with a machine with open ports. The oil gets in every little cut or scratch and rots it.

The machine I am riding had a sad history. It is the machine that Johnny Albright was riding when he was killed at Newark.

GEORGE RENEL.

But it is all in the game. We all know our time may come any time, but we do not worry. I have been at it twelve years, and I am alive yet. And twelve years is a long time.

Cornell Crews Off

ITHACA, N. Y., June 6.—The Cornell crew's varsity eight, varsity four and freshman eight left here last night for Poughkeepsie, there to remain in training for the intercollegiate regatta on June 21. Practically the entire student body gave the oarsmen a sendoff.

Dean Frank Irvine, Cornell's member of the board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing association, resigned yesterday as head of the university athletic council. Prof. H. E. Dederick was elected in his place. Dean Irvine will continue, however, to represent Cornell in rowing.

Tigers Buy New Men

DETROIT, Mich., June 6.—The Detroit baseball club has purchased Pitcher Grimes and First Baseman Burns from Ottumwa, of the Central association. Grimes, a right-hander, has won eleven straight games and has not been scored on in thirty successive innings.

Players' "Frat" Still on Job

NEW YORK, June 6.—Some of the reasons why baseball players in the big leagues want to change the system under which they are farmed out to minor league clubs at salaries less than those called for in their original contracts, are contained in a letter written by David L. Fultz, president of the Baseball Players' fraternity, to August Herrmann, chairman of the national commission, and made public today.

"There can be no intelligent denial," reads Mr. Fultz's letter, "of the soundness of the principle that so long as the players are held under a signed contract he must receive the salary the contract calls for. The common practice of forcing men to go to other teams and allowing those teams arbitrarily to cut their salaries can have neither legal nor moral justification.

"You say after the player is transferred it is a question of negotiation between him and his new owner. How can it be a question of negotiating when the player is compelled by your regulations to sign with one particular team or quit his profession? There can be no negotiation when one party is absolutely at the mercy of the other; it then becomes a question of duress.

"When the situation is reversed and the major league recruit plays far better ball than he is expected to, he can't 'welch' on his agreement and refuse to play unless he gets more money.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Incoulation a Wonderful Discovery

INOCULATION covers a wide range of different things, and undoubtedly this word used in many ways probably means as much to the world, if not more, than any one thing I know of. For instance, in the treatment or prevention of all kinds of diseases different kinds of bacteria are used for inoculation to prevent or cure various diseases, and with science which has so perfected and enlightened the world to such an extent that it is now possible to control or keep in check nearly every kind of contagious disease by inoculation in some form or other. The same thing can be said in detecting diseases of people and animals by injecting certain kinds of serum into the living specimens, and by this inoculation by bringing certain germs in contact with each other discovers diseases as well as prevents them. In testing for tuberculosis for people and cattle it is something more than wonderful the way this operation is done and how easily it is to detect this dreaded disease in an animal or person after they have been inoculated with certain kinds of serum. In the prevention of hog cholera and many other kinds of contagious diseases the same wonderful discovery has been put into the animals with certain kinds of bacteria to make them immune is equally as interesting and wonderful and in preventing diseases in poultry it is now being extensively used.

But, the most wonderful thing of all is the discovery by scientists of a method by which legume plants of all kinds can be inoculated with different kinds of bacteria and make them capable of drawing from the air the most valuable and highest priced fertilizer known and converting it in the growing plants in the roots of these plants and make them produce wonderful crops and enrich the soil for other crops to such an extent that no one can really estimate the actual value in dollars and cents what this discovery will be worth to the nation. Possibly it will do as much, if not more, towards the increase in the fertility of the soil, especially poor lands, and helping produce wonderful yields, such as have never been heard of, and more than ten times over increase the production of crops to such an extent that it will be possible to feed the nation with a small amount of labor and a few acres of land.

Until within the past few years the people have but little thought and didn't realize what it was worth, but within the past year or so as these bacteria have been developed and grown suited to nearly all kinds of legume crops, started first by cultures that were grown in small quantities on the roots of each of these plants. Science has made it possible to develop these bacterias by the millions from properties and apply them directly to seed which will make them support the weakest of plants and soon give them sufficient strength to take care of themselves even through dry spells and on poor land where otherwise if they did not have this bacteria supplied it would be impossible for them to grow a crop even in the ground to ever produce. It is something more than wonderful the amount of food that a tiny little plant from the pure fresh air and store it in the soil and help strengthen the plant when it is once started with this bacteria by inoculating the seed.

No up-to-date farmer who hopes to make a large per cent of profit out of his efforts nowadays will ever think of planting peas, beans, clover or any of the legume crops without first treating the seed or inoculating them with the germs that are suited for the successful growing of the different kinds of plants. The average farmer will no more attempt to grow a crop nowadays without this treatment any more so than a baker will attempt to make light bread without the use of a yeast cake.

Thousands of bottles of this culture are now being shipped to all parts of the world and it is certainly helping the entire world to produce wonderful crops on land that five to ten years ago was never ever thought of. With the valuable information that is sent with nearly all of this culture it enables even a novice to successfully use same and grow such yields as were never heard of before, and store in the soil at a cost of $2 per acre fully $10 to $20 worth of fertilizer per acre if it has to be bought in a commercial way. The beauty of it all is that you know positively you will get the benefit of this fertilizer and it will become available because it is applied directly to the roots of the growing crops.

With these wonderful bacterias that are growing of peas, which are the salvation to the country and are doing more to enrich our soils and help us make profitable crops and make the lands suitable for producing heavy yields for most any kinds of crops to follow peas. It is fast learning us that most any acre of land in this country can be made to yield $500 per acre compared to the revenue that can be derived from it at a small cost when these bacterias or inoculations can be had so conveniently and are so successfully used by every one who has tried them. It has made it possible to grow alfalfa on any land anywhere in the country and make a success every time from our understandings if certain rules followed and instructions are carried out which are simple and furnished with every bottle of inoculation that is sold. Anyone who is interested in farm crops or the future welfare of our country cannot afford to keep in the darkness any longer but should become enlightened on this subject and take advantage of the opportunities that are now offered us to get the largest per cent of profit out of our farm crops. It seems that farming is in its infancy and every year something new turns up to help nature utilize the many valuable things that are put here for man to convert into wealth when brains and energy are put to work on them. Those who are not posted on these subjects should become so at once as plenty free literature is now offered describing fully these wonderful discoveries, and inoculation to the farming public has become more valuable than it is to medical science.

Yours very truly.

REAL ESTATE GRANT BUILDING RENTING

FOR SALE AT

AUCTION TOMORROW

SIX UP-TO-DATE HOMES

And 19 Ready-to-Build-on Lots

SATURDAY, JUNE 7, 1913

At 3 p. m., on the Premises

THESE are 5 and 6-room houses, with every city convenience and connection, including furnace in several of the houses, but no gas as yet. These houses were built of the best material, under the personal direction of Colonel I. N. Ragsdale, who could not be induced to build a shoddy house.

These houses are real city homes, located in the social center of the Tenth Ward, and only a step from the best car service in Atlanta.

We urge you to go out and inspect this property. Each house will be plainly placarded, showing cash payment and monthly payments; also the amount of the loan to be assumed.

THESE HOUSES ARE NOW RENTED, and bring in from $18.50 to $30.00 per month. Think of what a help that will be to you, in meeting your payments, should you not be ready to occupy the house.

The houses and lots front on the following streets:

Arlington Avenue, Princess Avenue, and LaRosa Terrace.

Arlington avenue runs off of Lee Street, right at Colonel Ragsdale's handsome home. Princess avenue runs off of Avon (Oakland) avenue, between the Baptist church and Captain E. P. Ryan's fine home, giving the property two approaches, each of which is a prominent street.

THIS SECTION HAS NO OBJECTIONABLE FEATURE

It is logically the place for the people to live who are engaged in business, or who are employed among the many industrial and manufacturing and railroad enterprises around the Terminal Station, Whitehall street, Mitchell street, and Central and West Point railroads, and the adjacent territory. The car service and the way the streets run prove these statements to be true. Think about it, and you'll see it as we do.

THE LOTS ARE READY TO BUILD ON

These are the lots to buy, either for home sites or for speculation, because they are ready to build on. In addition to this, every lot is a beauty, with nice young oak shade trees scattered over them. Also, because their location is excellent. They are only a short distance from the business center of Oakland City. Only two blocks from the City Schools, and near the churches; and the farthest lot is only two blocks from the car line; and, best of all, they are socially in the swim, and

ALL CITY IMPROVEMENTS DOWN AND PAID FOR.

THE TERMS ON THE HOUSES

Will range from $150 to $250 cash, and the payments will range from $22.50 per month to $32.50 per month, with 6 per cent simple interest. Small loan on five of the houses, to be assumed by the purchaser.

THE TERMS ON THE LOTS

are right. Every lot will be sold on terms of $50 cash, and the balance $15 per month, with only 6 per cent simple interest on the deferred payments.

HOW TO GET THERE—Take cars at the corner of Forsyth and Alabama streets, marked "East Point," "Hapeville" or "College Park." Get off at the corner Avon (Oakland) avenue. You will then be only a step from this property.

COME AND BE SURE TO BUY—You will never regret it if you do, and you will be sorry if you don't. Get plans from

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Permit for $12,500 Given Negroes for Building on Bell Street—Building Value Thus Far in 1913 Less Than $600,000 Behind Same Period in 1912—Lot in Druid Hills Changes Hands—Asa G. Candler Buys Chicago Property

A building permit was on Friday granted to the "Independent Benevolent Order," a negro organization, for a three-story brick building at No. 161 Bell street, which will cost $12,500.

This building will consist of stores on the ground floor, offices on the second and an auditorium on the third.

Although everybody had been predicting a sharp decline in building values, the showing thus far in 1913 is not at all bad as compared with the corresponding period last year. The value is less than $600,000 behind the corresponding period in 1912.

The 1912 total was $10,000,000, which broke all records and set a formidable pace to follow, as two skyscrapers, a hotel and big apartment house, to say nothing of the new court house, happened to be bunched during the year.

That record will hardly be duplicated this year, but at the rate we are going the total value for 1913 should be in the neighborhood of $8,000,000.

WHITEHALL GRADE.

Now that the city council has agreed, as set forth in detail under a separate heading, to appropriate $3,500 for two blocks of regrading on Whitehall street between Mitchell and Garnett streets, some important building announcements may be expected on that thoroughfare shortly.

Charles H. Black, C. E. Currier and several other property owners will build as soon as they can be assured of a certain grade. Work will be started in October.

DRUID HILLS SALE.

The Martin-Ozburn Realty company has sold for Eugene Ragland to C. B. Durham a vacant lot on the Williams Mill road, in Druid Hills, east of the former Smith residence, for $5,500, or $55 a front foot. The lot is 100x500.

MR. CANDLER'S PURCHASE.

Asa G. Candler has added to his out-of-town holdings through the action of a skyscraper in New York, and the purchase of a property in Washington, comes the announcement of another purchase in Chicago. Mr. Candler will improve his Chicago property with a ten-story building to cost $500,000. The following dispatch gives the details of the Chicago transaction:

CHICAGO, June 6.—Asa G. Candler, president of the Coca-Cola company, of Atlanta, has bought from Florence E. Hoops, Francis A. Emmons, Jr., Georgiana B. Hermann and Rhoda F. Emmons, heirs of Rezin Lancaster, the property at 1330 South Wabash avenue, 22½ feet, $45 feet, for the reported price of $28,000, or $1,254 a front foot.

The holding adjoins on the south 92 feet owned by Mr. Candler, the present purchase giving a total frontage of 114 1-3 feet to the purchaser.

ENGLAND TO BUILD THREE DREADNAUGHTS

Work on Giant Battleships Will Commence Immediately

This measure is taken in consequence of the rejection by the Canadian senate of the naval aid bill to appropriate $35,000,000 for the construction of three dreadnoughts for the British navy.

Saving and Investing

MERELY A SUGGESTION.

BY JOHN M. OSKISON.

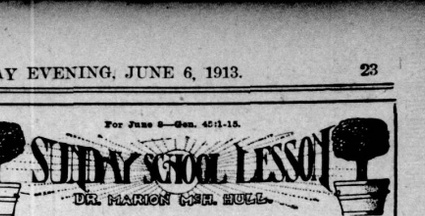
The other day I read Miss Wooley's account of the reformation of an extravagant husband. She simply won from extravagance and drink by the wife, and her method seemed to me to be broad and effective. She simply bought things which they couldn't pay for, and the husband had to hustle harder and harder to meet the payments. Having to hustle and save his money, he couldn't, in the nature of things, continue to drink and sport.

While I think that article it occurred to me that the wife had hit upon a remedy for economic extravagance and incompetence which can be used in a perfectly humane way. But I should not put the remedy in the hands of wives; I believe that it ought to be in the medicine cabinet of parents.

Parents know only too well how fast grows the desire in children to acquire things. Ordinarily the parents try hard to make the kids discriminate between what is worth getting and keeping and what is not. The usual result is that the well trained child grows up believing that certain things count, and that certain other things don't. Their desires and their incentive to work to gain their desires are limited in the same way.

I would suggest that the parents impose upon the getting program of their children just one condition—that they shall pay for everything in some way. When Bob gets a sled, have it clearly understood just what it is to cost Bob—in errands done, in pennies earned, in money paid out of an allowance. When he wants something else let him have it if he can show you a way to finish paying for the sled and the new thing, too. When he can no longer show you a clear road to the settlement of every debt he owes then shut down on him tight.

Once shut off absolutely from the acquisition of something which seems acutely desirable, your child will get a valuable, concrete illustration of the necessity for financing himself. It will be the beginning of the sort of reform which will last. When that child is married the need for the sort of discipline described by Miss Wooley will not exist.



The self-sacrificing spirit of Judah, and the thought of his father's sufferings was too much for the prime minister. He ordered the attendants to withdraw, and stood in the room alone with the eleven sons of Jacob. He was overcome with his emotion, and wept as a manly man would.

The brothers' state of mind can better be imagined than described, particularly when the veil was lifted from their eyes, and they learned that all along they had been dealing with their brother whom they had hated, had tried to destroy, had sold into slavery, and had lied about to their father for twenty-two years. They could have been the sweetest kind of music in their ears to have heard from his own lips the name of their long lost brother, but it was not. It struck such terror to their hearts as can scarcely be described. They were agitated beyond measure; they did not know what his next step would be. They knew well what it should be if they were treated as they deserved; and the fear of that, of losing their dearest possession—life itself—and of leaving their little ones destitute—oh, it was enough to disturb them greatly. But in the midst of it they were absolutely in his power; they had no defense of any kind to make; they could only throw themselves on his mercy, and

FRENCH SUFFRAGISTS DEPLORE MILITANCY

Mme. Jules Siegfried Says Militant Suffragettes Are Enemies to Cause

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, June 6.—Mme. Jules Siegfried, wife of a former French cabinet minister and president of the French National Association of Women, is strongly opposed to the tactics adopted by the militant suffragettes.

In an interview published here today she refers to the derby incident when Miss Emily Davison, threw herself in front of the king's horse "in the name of freedom for women."

"Many of the delegates to the international congress of women, now in session in Paris, look upon such manifestations with intense disapproval," says Mme Siegfried.

"The militant suffragettes are behaving as though they are insane. Their dangerous demonstration hurt the cause of womankind. There are in England as well as in France great numbers of feminists who pursue their aims without employing bolsterous expedients to attract attention. Such practices as those adopted by the militant suffragettes savor of charlatanism and turn our cause into ridicule. They are our enemies."

Lady Aberdeen, president of the International Council of Women, said:

"We condemn without mercy these senseless acts. The aim of our efforts is that men and women should be equal. The realization of ideas of Mrs. Pemmeline Pankhurst would provoke a revolution of which women would be the sole victims."

Miss Davison's Condition Grows Serious Friday

(By Associated Press.)

EPSOM, England, June 6.—The condition of Miss Emily Davison, militant suffragette who was so seriously injured while interfering with the king's horse in the derby on Wednesday, became much worse today. She passed a restless night and the doctors considered the symptoms grave. An operation probably will be necessary.

DIABETIC LEG AMPUTATED

Physicians knew that operations on diabetics are nearly always fatal, operations commonly making new centers for gangrene, which often shows in this disease. Therefore, the following successful operation on a diabetic will interest physicians and diabetics generally.

Patient, a San Francisco business man, was taken to the St. Winifred Hospital suffering with a gangrened leg. It was an old case of diabetes and the gangrene had extended so far that the severance was between the knee and thigh.

The physician did not attempt the operation till he had eliminated the sugar with Fulton's Diabetic Compound. The consulting physicians felt it would be fatal, but the operating physician knew what he could do in such cases after he had eliminated the sugar, and proceeded with the operation.

The fourteenth day the stitches were removed, the wound showing healthful pink color. The patient left the hospital the fourth week.

The operation was based on the ability of Fulton's Diabetic Compound to eliminate the sugar in diabetes. If you have diabetes and are of middle age or over you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Diabetic Compound before giving up. It can be had at Frank Edmondson & Bro., 11 N. Broad St. and 108 N. Pryor St., Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Wiley Wins Bet But Loses Handful Of Hair to a Baby

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, former chief chemist of the department of agriculture and "pure food" champion, is minus a handful of hair, as the result of a wager made with a friend at the Cosmos club. It developed today that Dr. Wiley to prove his theory that a proper diet was essential for the welfare of young children, cited the case of his own baby, who is not yet one year old.

"I haven't much hair to spare," said Dr. Wiley, "but if my youngster can't yank out a handful or two of it, just to illustrate his strength I'll buy you a new hat."

The scoffer, who happened to be a close friend of the Wiley family, accepted the offer. The Wiley baby "made good" the denuded spot on Dr. Wiley's pate now is covered by the hat the unbeliever was forced to buy.

SEVENTY WOUNDED IN GERMAN STRIKE RIOT

Police Quell Disturbance by Use of Sabres and Pistols. One Killed

STETTIN, Germany, June 6.—A battle between police and strikers, in which seventy persons were severely wounded, was fought last night in the suburb of Frauendorf as the sequel to the killing of a striker by a non-striker.

Workers in a chicory factory went on strike some time ago. Last evening one of them molested a man who had continued at work, and in the fight which ensued the striker was stabbed and killed.

The striker's comrades later gathered in front of the factory and demanded that the non-striker be handed over to them. Their request was refused and they threatened to demolish the factory.

The local police were unable to cope with the angry strikers and reinforcements were called for from Stettin. Shortly afterward a body of 300 armed policemen arrived in automobiles from headquarters in Stettin and a pitched battle between them and the strikers occurred.

The police freely used their sabers and revolvers. The strikers replied with pistol shots, but were soon overcome by the disciplined force. They were finally dispersed, leaving many of their number wounded on the ground.

The casualties were in some cases of a severe nature. Ten policemen and about sixty civilians were treated by surgeons during the night.

Park May Extend From Washington Up to Baltimore

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The establishment of a wide stretching park, under federal control, extending from Washington to Baltimore, is to be pressed by leading citizens of the capital, among them a present commissioner of the District of Columbia and his predecessor.

The board of trade has appointed a committee which will today begin an investigation of the question. A general survey of the territory between the two cities will be made, options will be obtained and a general idea obtained as to the cost of property by condemnation.

The project is not a new one, but this is the first time that organized effort has been made to outline a general plan. The park would be designated a federal forest reserve and be subject to federal regulations. The stretch between the two cities is a favorite route for automobilists.

A proposed change in the mode of dress for men and women of the sect was defeated and a movement to place county fairs on the "forbidden" list also failed.

Seattle, Wash., was selected as the place for holding the 1914 conference.
